FINLAND CALLS MORE MEN TO BATTLE REDS

Men of 43 and 44 Ordered to Report for Military Duty; Claims 3,500 Foes Killed.

Troop Call Sounded as 27 Russian Planes Fly Over Helsinki, Drop No Bombs.

(By Associated Press)

HELSINKI—Finland called another class of reserves to the colors—the second in 24 hours—today as furious fighting on the Karelian isthmus was reported to have cost the invading Red army 3,500 dead

The class of 1896—men 43 and 44—was called up for service against the Russians who sent a squadron of 27 planes droning over Helsinki today to cause the capital's first air raid alarm in weeks No bombs were dropped, however

A Finnish communique described heavy fighting on the isthmus front, now in its 15th day of battle, and declared Russian attacks had been repulsed on numerous sectors.

A thousand Russians were killed while attacking over the ice at Muolojarvi and 2,500 in a series of blows near Taipale, at the eastern end of the isthmus front where the two armies have been locked in battle for 15 days.

In one of the attacks the Finns said they captured two tanks, turned them around and put them into immediate service against the Russians.

In the 10-mile strip of inferno at Summa, the Finns acknowledged that relentless Russian assaults, now in their fifteenth day, had caused abandonment of some of the Mannerheim line's advance fortifications

(A Soviet communique today reported capture of 16 more Finnish positions, bringing to 100 the number claimed within a week.)

Main Line Holding.

The main line still holds, however, the Finns reported, and everywhere else, on the isthum, north of Lake Ladoga and on Finland's "waistline" front, the Finnish story was one of success.

The Russians bought the Summa outposts at high prices in men, munitions and machines, the Finns said. A communique related that "thousands of enemy fallen and

M'Gregor Hits Back At Ashbrook Charge

Challenges Dem Opponent to Face Him on Same Platform In Talk at Lincoln Day Dinner Here.

BULLETIN

Governor John W. Bricker announced in Columbus today he would aid J. Harry McGregor (R., West Lafayette) in his campaign for the 17th district congressional post in the special election Feb. 27, addressing a Republican gathering in Newark tomorrow night and in Coshocton later.

Charging his opponent was afraid to meet him on the same platform and that he had to call in aid from Washington to fight his political battle for him, J. Harry McGregor, Republican candidate for the congressional short term in the Feb. 27 election, lashed back at Byron B. Ashbrook, the Democratic candidate, at the Lincoln day banquet last night at First Methodist church.

There were 260 Republicans and guests at the banquet which was given by the Richland County Republican Women's club, and which provided McGregor with his first opportunity to answer the Tuesday night barrage laid down by Ashbrook

McGregor said he hoped that Ashbrook would continue to make such "mud slinging" speeches so that there would be no confusion in the minds of the voters as to which Ashbrook was in the race—"Byron or that clean-cut politician, the late William A. Ashbrook."

"I am not averse to being the errand boy of the people of Ohio," he said in answer to Ashbrook's charges. "I was the errand boy for the people of my county for three terms in the Ohio assembly and I would be glad to serve in the same capacity for the people of my state."

In answer to Ashbrook's charge that McGregor was "a professional politician," the latter said, "If being elected to a position of trust and responsibility for three terms by the people of my county who know me constitutes being a professional politician, then I plead guilty

"There are enough clean-cut issues to be faced in this campaign by both of us," he continued, "and I, for one prefer to meet them rather than to try to ride into congress on the coat-tails of a relative."

McGregor briefly outlined his platform and the issues of his campaign under six items: Putting the federal government on a pay-as-you-go basis as Ohio is doing; abolish one-man rule and return the government to "we, the people", localize relief, give big and little business a chance so they can absorb unemployment; avoid unneutral acts and policies that are likely to involve us in a war;

DRIFTS FORCE CLOSING OF TWO RURAL SCHOOLS

Highway Crews Work All Night to Open Roads; Snowfall Measures 4 Inches.

With township roads in southern and western Richland county still clogged with snowdrifts five feet deep, schools at Lexington and Ontario were closed today until the roads are cleared.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword and Clyde Moore, county road maintenance superintendent, said all county routes were open by noon today and most of the township roads will be cleared of drifts by tonight.

Moore said a county road crew, manning six plows, worked all night opening the major routes and then began on the township roads. Because the strong wind continued to drift the fluffy snow, it was necessary to go over some of the routes several times, the road men said.

Conditions were worst in Troy township, which includes Lexington, and in Springfield township, west of Mansfield. Schools in those sections were expected to open again Friday. Approximately 500 pupils in Lexington and 500 at Ontario were affected by the closing.

The Mansfield area, blanketed by more than four inches of snow, was one of the coldest spots in the nation this morning, the mercury here dropping to five below zero. That official reading was made west of the city by Observer Otto Sprunger.

Under clear skies and bright sunshine, the temperature rose to 26 at noon and the weatherman said it will go higher tonight and Friday. A storm area moving in from the west will bring light snow or rain Friday, the forecast said.

Roads were still blocked today by snow in southern and eastern

PULL AUTO TO SHORE WITH 2 DEAD CHILDREN

Put-in-Bay Residents Seek to Recover Bodies After 'Ice Bridge' Breaks, Kills 4.

BULLETIN

SANDUSKY—(AP)—The bodies of two trapped children, who drowned with their parents when their automobile plunged through treacherous Lake Erie ice, were recovered from the car today.

(By Associated Press)

SANDUSKY—Residents of Put-In-Bay pulled toward shore today an automobile whose plunge through an ice "bridge" drowned a physician, his wife and two children.

Men standing on planks grappled onto the car in 30 feet of water at the spot 500 feet off Middle Bass island where it went down

In the car, the rescue workers believed, were the bodies of Barbara Edam, 2, and George Edam, jr., 3. The bodies of the father, 33, and Mrs. Loretta Edam, 29, were recovered from the lake last night several hours after the tragedy.

Dr. Edam had been making the rounds of his patients on the island and while returning home late yesterday apparently drove from the regular path taken by motorists over the lake ice.

Postmistress Mildred McCann, of Middle Bass, who witnessed the tragedy from the shore, said she believed Dr Edam struck a hole in the ice, a theory shared by Cap. Miller.

Marblehead coast guardsmen had warned Tuesday that further automobile travel on the "ice bridge," softened by moderating weather, was hazardous. Journeys over the ice had been frequent until recently, however, fishermen driving over a sizeable area near the islands seeking advantageous angling spots

REJECTS BILL ON BASIS IT'S 'INCONSISTENT'

Reminds Council of Pending Plan to Increase Size of Police Force.

PASS UP FIREMEN BILL

Council Puts Problem Up to Seeburger, But Chief Dumps It Back.

Mayor William J. Locke today vetoed an ordinance passed last week by city council that would have provided a shorter work-week for city policemen. It was his first veto.

Meanwhile, on the advice of City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, council passed up action on providing a 72-hour week for city firemen, the purpose for which a special meeting had been called last night, and left the problem in the hands of Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger.

But Seeburger dumped the matter back into the lap of the administration today with the flat assertion that he intended to do "nothing about it" since he had warned officials six months ago of impending legislation when he submitted his 1940 budget request.

Returned unsigned to Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., the police bill was accompanied with a letter to council in which the mayor gave his reasons for turning down the proposal.

Locke said he had vetoed the legislation, which was passed by a vote of 7 to 2 over the protests of Police Chief Meade K. Bates, because of conflicting proposals now being studied to revamp both the police and fire departments.

He pointed out that council now has under consideration plans for adding more men to the police force and that the legislation to reduce the manpower of the department before the other plan was disposed of was not consistent.

The proposal to revamp the police department and add more men in order to set up a traffic bureau is under consideration by council traffic committee, headed by Philip Smith.

City officials were notified last week they would have to comply with a state law which provides

DUTCH ANGRY

Demand 'Full Indemnification' for Sinking of Liner.

AMSTERDAM—(AP)—The Netherlands announced today she would demand "full indemnification" from Germany for the torpedoing and sinking last Saturday of the 6,853-ton Holland-America liner Burgerdijk.

An official announcement said:

"Preceding a written protest, the Netherlands government already has advised the German government of serious objections against the torpedoing of the Burgerdijk, for which full indemnification will be demanded."

(The Burgerdijk was en route to Rotterdam from New York when she was torpedoed 15 miles south of Bishop's Rock.

(Owners charged that a German submarine sank the vessel. Authorized Germans in Berlin yesterday said they had no information from any German source that the Burgerdijk was sunk by a German submarine.)

McGregor And Ashbrook Substitute Tell Views To Women Voters

A Washington representative of Byron B. Ashbrook, Democrat, and J. Harry McGregor, Republican, aspirants for the 17th district congressional seat left vacant by the death of William A. Ashbrook, met last night on the same platform at a non-partisan meeting sponsored by the Mansfield League of Women Voters

The meeting was held at the American Legion assembly room and was attended by men and women of both political parties. It was the first public meeting sponsored by the recently-organized League.

Victor Hunt Harding, secretary of the National Democratic Congressional committee of Washington, represented Ashbrook at the latter's request. It had been previously announced that the Democratic candidate, who canceled his Mansfield appearance several days ago, would be represented by John Correll, past president of the Young Democrats club.

Mrs Malcolm McBride, Cleveland leader of the League of Women's Voters, presided at the meeting and talked on the three pieces of legislation before the congress in which the League is most interested. They are the reciprocal trade act, which expires this year; the attempt to put off the date of execution of the new food and drugs act; and the bill to extend civil service to all important appointive federal offices.

In introducing Harding and McGregor, Mrs. McBride asked them both to refrain from campaign speeches and to confine their remarks entirely to their stand on the three pieces of legislation, in keeping with league rules

With the exception of one or two instances, both kept to this rule, but partisans in the audience refused to abide by the

Davey Leaves Question of His Gubernatorial Candidacy Unanswered

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Former Gov. Martin L Davey left unanswered today the question whether he will again seek the Democratic nomination for governor but said his final decision will not be governed by special rivalry against any particular aspirant.

This was construed in some quarters as a possible return offering in kind to the peace gesture of his rival of other years. Charles Sawyer in suggesting that Davey be included on the delegation from Ohio to the Democratic national convention

Belief was growing among political observers that Sawyer might definitely abandon any plan to become a candidate again and that he would make his position known shortly.

Although Davey denied that political significance attached to his Columbus visit there have been reports that he and Sawyer might have a conference in connection with plans to develop a harmony program among Ohio Democrats.

CABINET QUITS

Bulgarian Ministers Leave; Red Relations Cited.

SOFIA —(AP)— The cabinet of Premier George Kiosseivanoff resigned today and King Boris immediately called Professor Bogdan Philoff, minister of education, to form a new Bulgarian government.

Kiosseivanoff, a close friend of the king, had re-organized his cabinet for the eighth time in less than four years only last Oct. 23, retaining the double role of premier and foreign minister.

Kiosseivanoff's resignation was caused by his bitter fight with Ivan Bogranoff, minister of agriculture, reportedly over relations with Soviet Russia.

Bogranoff, a popular member of the Kiosseivanoff government, was said to favor further tightening of relations with Moscow

Shelby Girl, 15, Tops 5,000 Students To Win U. S. Honors

SHELBY - National honors for being the most outstanding freshman student for 1938-39 in the National Forensic league, a national speech organization, today was awarded to Miss Sally Van Horn, 15, of Shelby.

Miss Van Horn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Horn, 55 Boulevard, was chosen for this honor over some 5,000 freshman students in the 500 schools which have chapters in the league. Announcement was received by Shelby school authorities today of her selection by national league officials.

Making up Miss Van Horn's record on which she won national recognition were the 158 points she compiled during that year in debate, humorous declamation and participation in the first annual Ohio Student congress Most league members have to work four years to get so many points. The points are based on the amount of speech work each student does and his rating in this work

Miss Van Horn, a sophomore this year at Shelby high school, has received the highest degree given for speech work by the league It is the Degree of Distinction

She is on the varsity debate team at the school this year and was elected secretary of the Shelby chapter of the league. She is a student director for plays to raise funds for the speech club, and has played roles in a number of school plays.

NO AIR RACES

Cleveland Won't Have Them, But New Jersey Might.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The 1940 national air races will not be held in Cleveland, but the annual classic may return to the Ohio city in 1941

L. W. Greve, president of the civic group which sponsors the races in Cleveland, said today the decision was prompted by refusal of military services to participate and "uncertainty of general business conditions."

There was no indication here whether the races would be held at all but it was understood Newark (N J) airport is interested in staging them.

Ignore Threat of Independent, Order Two-Race Ballots

Despite the threat of J. E. Ringler of Ashland to file as an independent candidate for congress at the Feb. 27 election in the 17th district, the Richland and Ashland county election boards ordered ballots today bearing the names of only the two party candidates.

Secretary of State Earl Griffith told the boards that Ringler could not become a candidate by petition. He is said to have nearly 1,200 signers on petitions.

Ringler, a Townsend candidate, said he was entitled to a place on the ballot because there was no statute prohibiting his filing

Ballots for the special election will bear only the names of J. Harry McGregor, Coshocton county Republican, and Byron B. Ashbrook, Johnstown, Democrat.

The Richland county election board today ordered 25,000 ballots from the Bellville Star on its low bid of $133 Other bidders were Lindeman and Almy, Mansfield, $150 and the Richland Printing company, Mansfield, $164.

TELEPHONE SALE CAMPAIGN STIRS WOMEN'S CLUBS

Legion Auxiliary and D. U. V. Say Names Are Erroneously Used by Canvassers.

Two Mansfield women's organizations today disclaimed any sponsorship of a telephone sales campaign in which they said their names were being used without authorization.

They were the American Legion auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Robert W. Jones and the Daughters of Union Veterans, of which Mrs. Vernon B. Sherman is president.

Telephone canvassers seek to sell vanilla and other foodstuffs and various toilet articles to housewives, saying that part of the profit goes for "welfare work."

One canvasser telephoned Mrs. Jones, she said, and represented the sales campaign as being sponsored by the Daughters of Union Veterans.

Both Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Sherman emphatically denied any connection with the sale by their organizations.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said he had granted a permit to auxiliary No. 4 of the Sons of Union Veterans and the Women's Relief corps to conduct such a sale.

He said, however, that if proof of misrepresentation were furnished him, he would revoke the permit and halt the canvass.

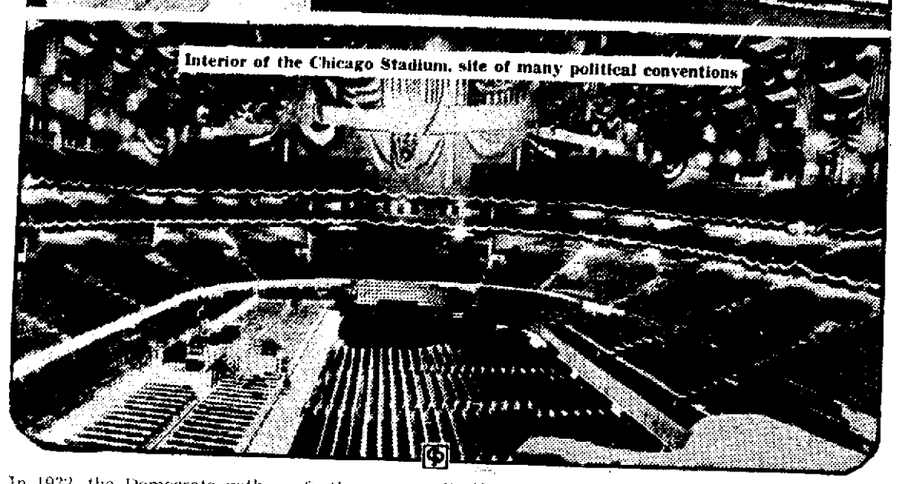
Mrs. Harry Constance, secretary to both the Sons of Union Veterans auxiliary and the Women's Relief Corps, and general chairman of the sales campaign, says solicitors have been instructed not to confuse the names of the sponsor auxiliaries with other organizations in the city, but admitted there has been similar trouble in each of four campaigns which preceded this one.

She added that the campaign was being staged to raise money for the two organizations to meet their share of the cost of new flags for Johnny Appleseed Junior high school, which are being provided by the patriotic organizations of the city, and some additional welfare work.

Will History Repeat Itself In Chicago Stadium?

Roosevelt accepts—1932

The Chicago Stadium



Interior of the Chicago Stadium, site of many political conventions

In 1932, the Democrats gathered in Chicago's stadium and nominated Franklin Delano Roosevelt, then governor of New York, their candidate for president. This summer—eight years later—the Democratic national convention again will be held in Chicago's stadium. Will history further repeat itself and bring about the renomination of Roosevelt? No one—perhaps, not even President Roosevelt—knows. Views show, top left, Roosevelt speaking in the stadium in 1932, accepting the nomination; top right is an exterior view of the stadium; bottom photo is the interior of the stadium showing the vastness of the structure, which is gay with convention decorations.

Sponsors of the enterprise declared it will enable producers to make one continuous trip to all six shows at a considerable saving and will also materially increase combined purses for winners of various breeds of livestock.

HID NEAR HERE

Woman Accused as Accessory in Husband's Escape.

Mrs. Magdalena Rais of Akron was held under $3,000 bond in Cleveland today on an indictment returned by the federal grand jury charging she was an accessory in hiding her husband on a farm near Mansfield before assisting him to flee to Canada.

She was one of five Akron residents who pleaded innocent before Federal Judge Robert N. Wilkin in Cleveland yesterday to indictments connected with the liquor conspiracy case in which George Hargreaves, former assistant Summit county prosecutor, is charged with concealing an alleged fugitive.

Mrs. Rais' husband, Nicholas, has been indicted for liquor conspiracy, but has not been arrested.

Hargreaves is accused of "advising and planning" the flight of Edward Sebeny and Lazlo Kovacs to a hideout near Mansfield last March 17 after a liquor raid on a farm in Portage county.

SUES FOR BOY, 11

Father Asks $3,000 Damages in Action Against Autoist.

Action to collect $3,000 damages for injuries he alleges were sustained in an automobile collision last summer was filed today in common pleas court against Harry Y. Darling of Newville by Charles Owens, 11, of Athens, Ga., through his father, L. H. Guest.

In his petition, young Owens claims that he suffered injuries that resulted in the loss of time from school and that he believes he will be compelled to spend funds for medical treatment during the rest of his life. He states that his earning capacity also will be diminished due to his injuries.

He charges that the accident occurred on Aug. 19, 1939 on the Little Washington highway in Washington township when Darling's car collided with one driven by his brother, Howard.

OPEN LETTER TO DOCTORS

On one of Greatest Discoveries ever made about

CONSTIPATION

Tests in World-Famous Hospital Made Public. 16 Scientists Discover Way To Produce Nature's Own Gentle Complete "Daily" Bowel Movements

Dear Doctor: We are using the newspapers as the quickest media we know to acquaint you with this sensational news on recent scientific tests on constipation—

Thanks to the persevering research of 16 Scientists who made over 1470 experiments, your patients may now enjoy more gentle, complete daily bowel movements—simply by taking a "little daily dose" of Kruschen—(world-famous formula)—which now comes in delightful, pleasant tasting "bubbling" form. No griping. No nausea. No purging. Kruschen not only makes an ideal "daily" treatment for constipation but it ALSO acts as a mild antacid and kidney stimulant.

HOW IT WORKS

As you know, Doctor, one of the chief causes of constipation is lack of moisture in the colon. Waste then becomes hard, dry, caked, and constipation with its headaches, mental dullness, sallow skin often results.

These scientific tests showed that many cathartics, laxatives, purgatives and harsh roughage products only "irritated" the bowel into action and resulted in bigger and more frequent doses having to be taken. BUT NOT KRUSCHEN in the "little daily dose"!

These Scientists reported: "We consider this one of the most important investigations we have made and that this small daily dose of Kruschen actually produces nature's own gentle, regular bowel action by maintaining enough moisture in the waste to keep it soft, moist and easy to expel. Kruschen can be taken every day for years with no necessity to increase dosage."

All leading drug stores carry Kruschen. A jar costs only a trifle and will last your patient for weeks. Made right here in U.S.A.

Note: Clinical samples gladly sent to any practicing physician upon request to E. Griffiths Hughes, Inc., Rochester, N. Y.

Now Comes In Sparkling, "Bubbling" Pleasant Tasting Form!

MOVIE ACTORS PICK THE BEST IN HOSPITALS

Cedars of Lebanon Has Parade of Stars; They Like It Sick of Well.

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

HOLLYWOOD — (U.P.) — When a movie actor gets sick, odds are that he goes to the Cedars of Lebanon hospital, which is one of the most pleasant places in southern California.

William Powell underwent his series of operations at the Cedars. It's where Ann Sothern obtained her crescent-shaped scar and Carole Lombard her plain one. The parade of movie actors in and out is so constant that the front door should be an elegant place to get autographs.

So what we're writing about today is the movie stars' hospital, where we've been spending most of our time lately. Our pride is in room 427, minus an appendex, and now is recovering rapidly. You'd think she was a movie star, herself, from the attention she gets.

We've been in many a hospital in our day, but never in one like this. All the nurses, for instance, are young and beautiful. They also seem to know their professions. If we were casting director we think we'd try to lure them to our movie studio.

There are 300 rooms in the establishment, which range in cost to $40 a day for a suite, with sitting room for the entertainment of friends. The walls are decorated in soft colors, there are drapes on the windows, and there's a telephone by every bed.

If you didn't know it was a hospital, you'd almost think it was a first class hotel. It doesn't even smell of formaldehyde. Only odor noticeable is that of flowers, because when a Hollywood citizen gets sick all the others send him roses, in fancy bouquets.

This makes it necessary for the hospital to have special oversized floral stands and most of the rooms usually look like florists' displays. You can tell how prominent is the occupant by any room, even though his face is sheathed in bandages, merely by counting the flower vases.

When a really important citizen, like Lombard, rents a room, she gets so many truck loads of flowers that she has to give most of them away. This makes it nice for the lesser sufferers; and also the florists. When a movie actor gets sick, the flower men clean up.

The Cedars is geared to make even such unnecessary mortals as husbands feel at home. You know how it is, usually, when you call on your wife in the hospital. You feel like your big feet are going to knock something over; like all the nurses are wishing you'd leave; like you don't amount to anything.

At this hospital, though, there's a softly upholstered chair for you, and if you come at meal time, you can have dinner with your wife. You can order almost anything you like, with the possible exception of broiled lobster, or welch rarebit.

The food comes on trays, which are set with fancy china, shiny silver, good linen, and a small bunch of sweet peas. If you're a patient and feel lonesome, there's always a nurse to come in and chat. If you want music, she'll plug in a radio.

She also provides the daily papers and magazines, if you want 'em, and the hospital is so thoroughly pleasant that we wouldn't be surprised if a lot of actors weren't nearly so sick as they claim. We think they go to the Cedars largely for the fun of it.

ASHLAND — Suit for divorce has been filed in common pleas court here by Hazel A. Post against Willis H. Post. The defendant is charged with gross neglect of duty.

FOOD INSTITUTE'S FOR WOMEN BUT A MAN DIRECTS THE SCENE

When the 1940 Gasco Food Institute is presented in Mansfield next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, it will be largely a women's event, but one "mere man" will be in charge of all the physical details.

C. J. Mortley, manager of the Food Institute, is the man behind the scenes who will be responsible for the stage settings and the smoothly running operations of the Institute kitchen.

Besides these duties he will take an active part in all programs. On Thursday he will come out of his managerial seclusion to step into the kitchen and demonstrate how men can take a hand in the culinary arts, without losing prestige as "the boss" of the home.

Outside of this masculine interlude the Institute will be in charge of Miss Louise McFarland, a Gasco food lecturer who has been in Mansfield several times. She will be assisted by Miss Pauling Schofield, home service representative of the Ohio Fuel Gas company in the Mansfield district.

C. J. MORTLEY

Miss McFarland presents a new program of menus this year, with many interesting demonstrations in her all-gas kitchen.

The Institute is being brought here by the Ohio Fuel Gas company assisted by The News-Journal and merchants of the city. Sessions will start promptly at 9:15 a. m.

PAPER QUITS

Battle Creek Daily Ends, Joins Evening Publication.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. —(AP)— The Battle Creek Moon-Journal, one of the city's two evening newspapers, announced it was suspending publication with yesterday's issue.

George B. Dolliver, editor and publisher said the "good will, subscription list, franchise and physical property" of the newspaper had been acquired by the Battle Creek Enquirer and News, a member of the Associated Press.

Dolliver will join the Enquirer and News, owned by Federated Publications, Inc., as editor.

An announcement by Dolliver stated that "in common with newspapers from one end of the country to the other, the Moon-Journal has been handicapped by excessive federal and state taxes, by increased cost of print paper and other supplies essential to publication, and by continually increasing labor costs."

Radio Set Climbs To Stratosphere For 'Broadcast'

(By International News Service)

JOLIET, Ill — Delicate radio sending stations designed to broadcast but a single program play a major part in charting the air for American aviators

The sending stations have the brief life of a single weather report

The report is broadcast automatically until the balloon that carries the set 50 000 feet or more into the air is burst by pressure from the inside The life of the sending set ends there as it is whirled into space to drop to earth possibly hundreds of miles from its base

The station's work is done.

United States Weather bureau officials who manned ear phones on the ground have all the data they need to supply the Civil Aeronautics Authority with an accurate report of conditions at all levels in the air.

The report sent to Washington from the weather bureau at Joliet Municipal airport is similar to other reports sent by stratosphere weather bureaus in other states.

United, the reports form an authentic graph of flight conditions for the entire country.

The headline game brings the famous Waterloo Wonders to Mansfield for a tussle with the City league All-Stars. It is scheduled at approximately 8 15 p m.

The preliminary game is a headliner in its own right. It will pit the Yuncker Sports against the Shelley Chocolates, and it is the first game of the playoff to determine the City league championship. The winner of this game will meet the Blue Goose Sohioans in the playoff finals later.

Mansfield basketballgoers will see one of the major traveling teams in the country in the Waterloo club tonight

It has played 35 games, and the only defeat it has suffered was at the hands of the New York Celtics the night after the latter team bowed to the City league stars.

The Waterloo Wonders came into existence in high school After winning the Class B state honors twice in a row, the players remained together and played professional ball

Four members of the team, Byrl Drummond, Curt McMahn and Wyman and Orylin Roberts, were mainstays of the high school quintet. Other members of the present Waterloo team are Bill Hosket, former Ohio State star, and Bud Moodler.

* * *

A former Defiance college star, Moodler made his pro debut with Detroit in the National league a couple of years ago

The Yuncker-Shelley game is scheduled to get under way at 7 30 p m

Hutson's Onondagas Win League Crown

Crestline Cagers Beat Marion St. Mary's, 35-27, to Cop Six Nations' Championship.

MARION—The job of moulding together championship teams at Crestline high school is getting to be a routine task for Coach Merle Hutson

His crack football combine matched through a tough nine-game schedule last fall and emerged as one of the state's few undefeated and untied Class A scholastic elevens And his high-scoring cagers won the League of Six Nations basketball crown here last night

The Onondagas registered their fifth straight circuit contest by stopping Marion St. Mary's, 35 to 27, to cop the title.

Crestline was trailing by one point at the intermission, but came back to outscore its host in the last two frames.

With Phil Ganni, star guard, pacing the attack the Onondagas forged ahead, 26 to 22, in the third frame to take an advantage held to the final gun

Two Share Crown In Cage Loop

St. John's Win Over First M. E. Enables Baptists to Gain Piece of Title.

A FIELD goal that Kaseras dumped in the last 20 seconds gave St Johns Evangelicals a thrilling 30 to 29 victory over First Methodist on the Y M C A court last night and it may have cost the losers the second round championship in the Church Class A league

The Methodist combine still has a chance of winning the title, if it defeats the Park Avenue Baptist quintet in a playoff Feb. 28. The winner of this contest meets Mayflower, opening round champions, for the circuit title.

While First Methodist was losing the Baptist quintet walloped the First Lutherans, 35 to 20, to share the title Mayflower won over Central Methodist on a forfeit in the other scheduled contest on last night's program which brought the second round to a close

St John's after battling the Methodists to an 8-all deadlock in the initial period, stormed ahead, 15 to 12, at the intermission The Methodist hoopsters, however, trailing, 21 to 19, at the end of the third frame rallied to take a 29-28 lead before Kaseras tallied his game-winning basket

Fogel set the scoring pace with 15 points, while Kaseras led the winners with 10 tallies.

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

MANSFIELD'S one-sided triumph over Ashland in the cage affair out at the high school the other night again proved the inconsistency of the Tygers

A couple of weeks ago, Coach Vern Hoffman's men played a ragged ball game at Ashland and lost by a five-point margin.

This week they reversed the decision against the A's and won by a lop-sided 55 to 31 count, and there are probably few teams which could have beaten the Tygers in this melee on this night

Just why the Tygers have been unable to hold a steady pace this season is one of the unsolved mysteries of the year. The Tygers are not an experienced team, for one thing, but it is hard to believe that this is the real fault

Hoffman prefers to believe that the lack of an inspirational leader of the type of Johnny Hallabrin is a reason for their unsteady performance.

Despite their erratic play, the Tygers are expected to make it interesting for Canton McKinley on the home planks Saturday night. The Tygers put on a magnificent second half fight against the Bulldogs in their first meeting this season, and might dust off the Cantonites this week.

This is no prediction, you understand, but the Tygers have been virtually unbeatable on their home court. Only one of the five defeats suffered by the club was administered on the Mansfield planks. New Philadelphia turned the trick.

The Tygers will have a double purpose for wishing to halt Canton Saturday. They will not only want to avenge the 41-40 whipping suffered in Canton, but should have a desire to halt the Bulldogs' winning streak

The Bulldogs have won 13 straight games to compile one of the best records in Ohio high school circles

Sandusky meets Canton Friday night, but it is not likely that the Blue Streaks will endanger Canton's winning streak.

Believe New Blood Will Help Reds.

THE CINCINNATI REDS will have a dozen new faces in their baseball club this season and Manager Bill McKechnie hopes some of them will stand forth as shining lights

At least the National league champions should stand a fair chance with other clubs along the season's rocky pathway if there is anything to the story about getting new blood and new faces into an organization the hot-stove experts say

McKechnie has already expressed confidence in Pitcher Beggs, a "guy named Joe" obtained from the New York Yankees in a swap for Lee Grissom, much to the delight of the boys down east who thought they had put one over

Another pitcher, not new but confident he will stage a comeback, (a belief in which he has considerable backing) is the one-time expert Johnny Vander Meer

The new faces will include Rookie Bill Baker, a catcher from Indianapolis who ranked runner-up for the American association batting championship with a 338 in 98 games

Another is Russ Bevell second baseman who hails from New Orleans with a batting average of 326 and a reputation for being able to like Twenty Grand

Two more pitchers new to the Reds are Johnny Cannon, a southpaw from Albany who won 13 games last year and "Hutch" Hutchings curve king of the southeastern who set a new all-time record in that league for strikeouts

"Nip" Luce outfielder voted the southeastern's most valuable player in 1938 and Joe Mack first baseman from Columbus and Newark will be in the Reds dugout.

Hall to Put Crown On Block at Armory

George Becker, little New Yorker, will make a bid for the light-heavyweight wrestling championship of the world Monday night in the Mansfield Armory.

He'll wrestle Stacy Hall of Columbus, world's 175-pound titleholder, in a two out of three falls match with the crown at stake The Midwest Wrestling Association rules will govern the match

Matchmaker Tim Nolan of the Quality Club announced the signing of the match today. It has been officially approved by Heywood Allen, sr, of Louisville, Ky., president of the Midwest Wrestling Association.

Nolan signed the match after Becker's brilliant victory here Monday night over Davey Reynolds clever chap from Cedar Rapids, Ia, and thus stamped himself as among the very front rank of contenders.

Class B Clubs Close Regular Cage Seasons

This Week to See Majority of High School Teams Concluding Play.

Schedules will be completed by the majority of Class B high school teams this week-end and then come the county tournaments

Opening the final portion of the week's schedule will be a Twin-Valley league game at New Haven tonight. New Haven's foe will be Plymouth.

All of the Richland county schools except Mansfield and Union will be in action Friday night

The Tygers will be hosts to Canton McKinley Saturday however Union performs at Shiloh on the same night

The closing league schedule Friday night takes Butler to Ontario, Lucas to Madison and Bellville to Lexington. Shiloh plays at Greenwich in a Twin-Valley tilt.

Shelby invades Bucyrus for an N C O conference game Friday night while Mt Vernon goes to Marion in the league's headliner and Galion performs at Ashland

Madison Anxious To Beat Lucas

Coach Al Fendrick and his Rams of Madison high school have two good reasons for wishing to win Friday night's County league game with Lucas on the Rams' court.

In the first place, the matter of deciding the runner-up position will come up The Rams must win to deny Butler a chance to gain a tie for the position. Butler faces Ontario.

Also, if the Rams lose, it will mark the first time in 11 years that they have failed to close their regular season with a percentage of .500 or better. Madison had split its games to date.

Defeat Reds In Overtime

Batholome Scores Winning Point for Barons.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The Cleveland Barons were back in their victory stride today after taking the Providence Reds 3 and 2 in an International-American league hockey battle

The game was settled in the overtime period by Earl Bartholome who scored from 40 feet At the time both teams were playing with but five men on the ice as Art Leiseur of the Reds and Joe Jerwa of the Barons had been banned for the duration of the game for fighting

The scrap threatened to be a first rate free-for-all when Red Doran, on the Providence bench, reached into the fight when the combatants got up against the barrier. A spectator then took a swing at Doran, but the rink officials and ushers quieted things down before they went further.

* * *

The winning goal was the second scored by Bartholome his first coming in the final period on an assist from Don Deacon. Bob Blake scored the first Cleveland goal early in the second period Bill McKenzie and Art Giroux scored for the visitors

MEDWICK'S 71 MAKES HIM THREAT IN GOLF TOURNEY

TAMPA Fla —(AP)— Nearly three score golfing baseball players in Florida awaiting the call of spring practice planned to tee off today in the fifth annual National Baseball Golf tournament Pitcher Wes Ferrell of Brooklyn, defending champion, is automatically exempt from today's 36 hole qualifying test

Outfielder Joe Medwick of the St Louis Cardinals became one of the front rank contenders by turning in a snappy one over par 71 yesterday in a preliminary pro-baseball meet.

Allen Joins Tribe's Crop Of Holdouts

Indian Pitcher Spurns Offer of $10,000 With Bonus Clause for 1940.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— As long ago as last fall, Cleveland baseball fans predicted if the Indians had any holdout troubles this season they would center around Johnny Allen and Frankie Pytlak, fiery battery mates

Business Manager Frank Kohlbecker today confirmed reports that both had expressed dissatisfaction with terms and returned their contracts unsigned

This gave the Tribe three official" holdouts, Pitcher Johnny Broaca having already returned his $6,000 contract with a request for the $8,000 he received last year.

The fourth unsigned Indian is Willis Hudlin dean of the mound corps who has greeted his contract offer with silence

Kohlbecker forwarded letters from Allen and Pytlak to Vice President C C Slapnicka now in Florida preparing for the arrival of the players at their Fort Myers training camp

Allen handicapped by a mending elbow, pitched nine victories against seven defeats last season while working on the second year of a $19 000 contract It was reported the club had offered him a $10,000 agreement with a bonus clause for 1940.

Pytlak received about $9 000 in 1939 and it was understood the front office asked him to take a cut

* * *

Allen's opposition to bonus clauses prompted the belief that this was the focal point of his disagreement with the club. The management has publicly declared its willingness to trade Pytlak, a frequent holdout, and it is believed his reluctance to sign is explained by his desire to know whether he will be with the Indians in 1940.

Did You Know That A GIRAFFE CAN'T TALK!

Well Don't Try To Be Like the Giraffe— Get a Telephone and Use It To Call Others and To Be Called.

Spring? Say, It Must Be on the Way Already!

Is that a snowstorm I see coming? Can't be, for spring must be on the way. Baseball training schools already have opened in the Southland. At Orlando, Fla., Don Padgett, St. Louis Cardinals' catcher, shows some hopefuls how to slam the ball.

Decorrevont Denies Grievances Against Coach, Plans to Remain at Northwestern University

By STEVE SNIDER

EVANSTON, Ill. — (U.P) — Bill Decorrevont, a repentant fallen hero, disspelled another "campus revolution" today:

"I'm going to do all my halfbacking for Northwestern," he said. "I have no grievances against my coaches or teammates —only against some of these stories coming out about me."

The one-time schoolboy wonder, who discovered newspaper clippings don't mean a thing to opposing Big Ten football teams, wants to be let alone to pursue his studies and play left field on Northwestern's baseball team.

Although he's only a sophomore, Decorrevont has become to intercellegiate football what Dizzy Dean is to baseball. Thus, a minor campus storm kicked up yesterday when Bill admitted:

"Sure, I considered quitting Northwestern after the football season. It was a bad year and I thought a change would help. I sent a wire to a friend of mine on the west coast asking a few questions about Southern California.

"Nothing came of it. Anyway I changed my mind after a talk with Lynn Waldorf (head coach) and I'm staying."

Decorrevont's admission confirmed in part reports that all was not well behind the scenes during Northwestern's unexpected football collapse last fall. The Wildcats, crowned national champions before they'd played a game, wound up with three victories in eight contests.

Stories of dissension broke halfway through the season when a student columnist insisted Decorrevont's teammates refused to block for him. Bill denied it and later denied a report that he had demanded a change in the coaching staff.

"It's true I made inquiries about transferring to Southern California," he said. "Since then, I've had time to think it over. I decided I like Northwestern. That's why I came here in the first place.

"Maybe I've made some mistakes. Maybe not. Since Waldorf came back from Florida, I've talked to him about next season. We've discussed new formations that may make a difference. Last season, I didn't seem to fit into the plays we used."

* * *

One criticism of Northwestern's system, advanced by Decorrevont's high school coach, was that Bill was forced to run from formations too close to the line of scrimmage.

"I used to do better from a short punt or punt formation or on plays with plenty of deception," Decorrevont said. "I guess we didn't deceive any teams last year."

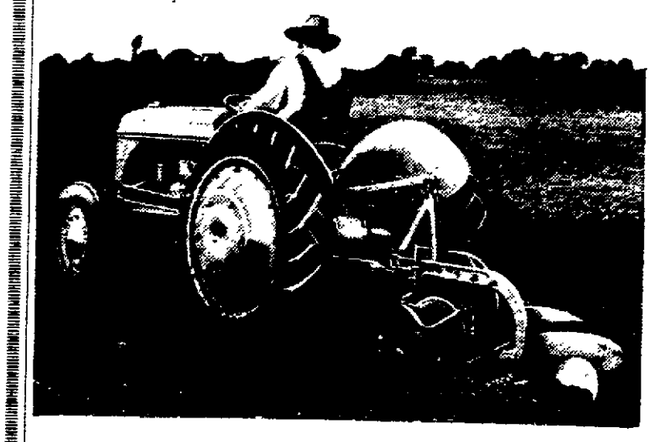
HYDRAULIC CONTROLS make BETTER, EASIER FARMING



FORD TRACTOR with Ferguson System

● The Ford tractor with Ferguson system is completely new. You've never seen anything like it. Tractor and unit are combined into one compact unit—making possible greater efficiency, control, economy! Hydraulic mechanism for easy, positive control of implements insures not only constant depth while plowing or cultivating, but effortless lifting and lowering of implements.

An outstanding feature is the light weight of the unit. Because the "line of draft" is downward into the ground, there is no longer need of excess weight to secure traction. This means amazing fuel economy and minimizes packing of soil. And it means you can plow fields full of rocks and stumps, because the new line of draft is the tractor's "safety device." When the plow strikes a hidden obstruction, weight is transferred to the front wheels, the rear wheels spin.

Those are only a few of the features. Come in. Look the Ford tractor with Ferguson system over. See the hydraulically controlled implements. Chances are you'll change your mind about a lot of things.

You Get These Features At No Extra Cost

Ferguson System of Hydraulic Controls • Pneumatic Tires • Self Starter • Power Take-Off • Governor • Battery and Generator • Oil-bath Air Cleaner • Muffler • Independent Brakes on Rear Wheels • Oil Filter • Adjustable Tread on Front and Rear Wheels (48" to 76")

$585 for Tractor at Dearborn, Mich. Taxes (if any) and implements extra

LOWER-PRICED SPECIALS HOLD MART INTEREST

Definite Trends Lacking for Bonds, Commodities and Foreign Markets.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks exhibited a mild rallying urge in today's market, with low-priced specialties again popular.

Dealings were slow from the start, however, and gains generally were in minor fractions.

Further new highs for the year were posted for Loft, Cluett-Peabody and Martin-Parry. The latter eventually slipped.

Sluggish movers were Santa Fe, Sears Roebuck, Eastman Kodak, and Kennecott.

Definite trends were lacking for bonds, commodities and foreign securities markets.

Traders could find scant stimulation in the news and, despite numerous cheering earnings statements, showed a disposition to restrain bullish propensities.

Among items receiving attention of market analysts were:

The country's bank clearings for the week ended yesterday, as summarized by Dun & Bradstreet, reflected the Lincoln's birthday holiday by a sharp drop. The latest total of $4,212,548,000 was off $1,177,256,000 from the week before and 5.3 per cent under the aggregate for the comparable period last year.

The rubber manufacturers' association announced crude rubber consumption in the United States in January amounted to 54,978 long tons against 48,428 in December and 46,234 in the first month of 1939.

A survey of the copper institute placed the nation's stocks of refined metal at the end of January at 135,441 tons, lowest since August, 1937. The decrease from December totaled 24,044 tons.

committees meet here Saturday in an effort to reunite party factions and to set up organization policy in selection of a slate of convention delegates.

G. O. P. LEADERS GATHER

WASHINGTON —(AP)— State leaders gathering for the Republican national committee meeting heard today that the convention date might be decided behind closed doors, although the site would be chosen in an open session.

Officials at party headquarters said this system would give divergent factions a fuller opportunity to air their views on the question of holding an early or late nominating convention.

The Democrats have picked Chicago, but have empowered National Chairman Farley to set a date after the Republicans have acted.

Republicans cannot delegate this power, so they must do their date-fixing at tomorrow's meeting.

FLIER'S HUNCH PROVED CORRECT

Pilot Didn't Want To Make Flight; He Was Killed.

MONTEREY, Minn.—(AP)—Pilot Melvin Marple's hunch that he should not fly yesterday turned out right. He was killed.

Marple, 27, was circling the landing field here in a test flight before taking up Percy Jose, owner of the ship, for a lesson. Suddenly the plane side-slipped to the ground.

Then Mrs. Lily Hubers, at whose home Marple lived, revealed the pilot had avoided taking Jose up for three days and had even refused yesterday because he had a premonition of misfortune. She didn't know he'd left the house until word of the accident reached her.

THEATERS

THERE'S such a difference of opinion over Carole Lombard's new picture, "Vigil In The Night," which is so grim. Just as if one dying child isn't enough there are two in it. The general feeling is that while there is so much tragedy in Europe and China, pictures should take on a lighter, gayer tone. One of the reasons, says a columnist, why "Broadway Melody of 1940" sold so well was because it was gay and entertaining even though it wasn't in the higher brackets for story and acting. As a matter of box office record, the heavy, tragic stories aren't doing so well these days. Everyone seems to want entertainment and not emotion-rackers.

"Young As You Feel."

The latest escapade of the Jones Family finds members taking a fling at Broadway in "Young As You Feel" which comes to the Ohio for a Friday showing only. Dad Jones sells his famous drug store, but bored with too much leisure takes the family to New York City, where son Jack is covering the World's fair for the home town paper. Exciting things happen to every member of the family before they get back home.

"Elephant Boy" At Park.

Sabu, the young Indian boy whom Alexander Korda brought out of India for the making of Rudyard Kipling's "Elephant Boy," is the outstanding character in this dramatic story which the Park presents Friday and Saturday. Sabu has since made several other pictures. Frankie Darro is the hero of "Chasing Trouble," the second feature. The action revolves around a messenger boy who inadvertantly aids a gang of racketeers.

"Fast and Furious."

A jealous wife and a promotor of beauty contests is a bad mixture but it makes a good comedy theme in "Fast and Furious." Ann "Maisie" Sothern is the jealous frau and Franchot Tone is the promotor. The comedy cast has Lee Bowman, Ruth Hussey, John Miljan and others. This is on the Ritz bill for Friday and Saturday, along with "Death Valley," a Roy Rogers film.

Drama of Speedways.

A Hopalong Cassidy Western and a drama of the auto speedways make up the Majestic program for the last two days of the week. "Indianapolis Speedway" stars Ann Sheridan, Pat O'Brien and John Payne, with Gale Page and Frank McHugh. The racing scenes were taken at the Indianapolis track. It is the drama of two brothers and the women they loved. "Santa Fe Marshall" has William Boyd as Cassidy.

COUNCIL VOTES TO RENEW WPA SIDEWALK PLAN

Sets Up Post of Inspector and Determines Cost of Work at Special Session.

Setting the stage for the city's 1940 sidewalk repair program, city council at last night's special session authorized Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton to enter into a contract with WPA for renewal of the city-wide project and set up the position of solicitor-collector-inspector.

The legislation provides a salary of $100 a month for the inspector during the time the project is in progress and allows him $20 a month automobile expense.

Renewing the charges that were in effect during the past year, the ordinance calls for the collection of 14 cents per square foot for new concrete walks laid and two cents per square foot for the relay of flagstone sidewalks.

The claims committee was handed two damage claims which were submitted to council for consideration.

They included a claim for $14.42 for two new tires, presented by John Kuelling, R. D. 3, Mansfield, who said that he had to replace two tires on his machine when his car ran into an open ditch on West Fourth street. The other was a claim for $14, submitted by T. J. Hanley, 171 West First street, for damage to the basement of his home from water which backed up in the sewer on Jan. 27 and Jan. 29.

The claims committee received a petition from property owners on Yale drive and Brae Burn requesting the construction of a water line on the street.

Council also approved the settlement of the claim of LeRoy Watkins, 102 South Foster street, for $120.

Watkins had sued the city for $600 damages which he claimed was due to a raised alley and clogged catch basin near his home which caused the storm water to run into his basement. The amount approved by council represented the settlement made before the case was heard in common pleas court.

ELECTS HORNER

Shelby Conservation League Holds Annual Meeting.

SHELBY — Dow Horner was elected president of the Shelby Conservation league at its annual reorganization meeting at the city hall last night. Horner succeeds C. Fred Rollins, who was not up for re-election.

Horner, active in the club for a long number of years, has headed the fish division of the association during the past several years. It was largely through his efforts that the conservation lake was constructed northeast of Shelby on the Ross Russell farm last summer.

Other officers chosen for the new year at the meeting were Joe Davis, vice president, and Robert Olds, secretary. Olds was unopposed at the election.

GUEST SPEAKER

Dr. Roehner Returns to City Today for Lenten Service.

Dr. Henry C. Roehner, of Cuyahoga Falls, former pastor at the First Lutheran church, will be guest speaker at the church for the weekly Lenten service at 7:30 p. m. today.

Dr. Roehner served as pastor of the First church from 1920 to 1932 when ill health forced him to give up the pastorate. Having regained his health, Dr. Roehner recently accepted a charge at Uniontown, O. While in ill health he lived at Cuyahoga Falls.

LEAGUE HEARS VIEWS ON BILLS

rules of the meeting and "heckled" with questions of political and personal import.

The same questions on pending legislation had been submitted to both men; Harding answered for Ashbrook and McGregor for himself. Both said they would be willing to vote appropriations from federal funds to insure the effective application of each of the three bills.

To the question, "what is your attitude on the reciprocal trades act," Harding said Ashbrook favored extending it for three years; and McGregor that he favored extension if it is modified to protect the American farmer, workingman and industry.

Harding said Ashbrook favored an "adequate and inclusive civil service merit system, and that political parties should function without patronage or contributions from wealthy private interests; McGregor said he was in favor of filling important positions with people of outstanding ability, but that he believed the heads of policy-determining departments should be of the same political faith as the chief executive, in order to obtain cooperation.

McGregor said he wasn't familiar with changes proposed in the Pure Food and Drug act, but said he would agree to any amendments that were for the greater protection of the public. Harding said Ashbrook favored any change in the act that was necessary for the protection of the public and that it was his impression the new law should be put into effect at once.

Mrs. McBride was called upon to use considerable diplomacy to keep the meeting within nonpartisan bounds, and dismissed it when partisans in the audience refused to keep their questions impersonal.

John C. O'Donnell, chairman of the Richland county Democratic executive committee, said today that Ashbrook would speak in Mansfield Saturday at 3 p. m., when he meets the members of the central and executive committee in the common pleas court room. The meeting is open to the public, O'Donnell said.

LOCKE VETOES BILL TO TRIM POLICE HOURS

Calls Proposal Inconsistent; Council Fails to Act on Fireman Problem.

that firemen work 72 hours a week or face court action.

Ward told council last night that "it is nothing to get excited about," explaining that the threatened mandamus action by the state meant that the department of industrial relations would obtain a court order against the city forcing it to comply with the law.

He warned however that failure to then comply with the order would result in contempt of court, the action being brought against the chief of the fire department.

"I am not going to be the goat of this thing," Seeburger said today. "I warned city officials six months ago that the new law would require the services of at least five additional men and they refused to grant the request when they drafted the annual appropriations bill. I intended to take no action unless directed by them."

Seeburger requested eight additional firemen in his budget request last August, four of which he said were needed to permit institution of the 72-hour workweek. At the request of council the firemen agreed to continue the 84-hour week until January when it was expected that finances would be set up for additional men.

Council's finance committee, however, cut the $6,600 item from the budget without providing for any increase in the fire department.

and a firm stand for a stricter Americanism.

Earlier McGregor had charged that Ashbrook was afraid to meet him on the same platform and had evidenced it by breaking his promise to appear at the League of Women's Voters meeting last night on a "flimsy excuse" but that he was speaking in Mt. Vernon instead.

"I'm willing to meet Ashbrook anywhere, anytime, to discuss issues with him, and I'll break any engagement to do it—provided he does his own talking and fights his own battle," he said.

He was referring apparently to Victor Hunt Harding, secretary of the National Democratic Congressional committee who came to Ohio from Washington this week to represent Ashbrook at several meetings.

McGregor was introduced by Judge J. C. Anderson, who presided at the dinner with Mrs. Ralph Hughes, president of the women's club.

An interesting feature of the program was a talk on Lincoln by Jacob Garber, Butler, who has one of the largest Lincoln libraries in this section of the state, with more than 300 volumes on the life and works of Lincoln. His talk was followed by an impersonation of Lincoln by Herman Clingan who was made up like the Civil war president and who gave the Gettysburg address.

A number of Republican candidates for nomination in the May primaries were presented. Among them were Robert J. Nichols, Raymond Brown and Theodore Lutz who have declared for prosecuting attorney: Berlyn McCready, for sheriff; John Catlett and Harry Maxwell for county representative; and Stuart Cramer, for probate judge.

ASHBROOK AT MT. VERNON

MT. VERNON—Byron B. Ashbrook, Johnstown, Democratic nominee for the short term in congress from the 17th district, charged last night that J. Harry McGregor, the Republican candidate, sought votes of aged people as an advocate of increased old age pensions but that he had been instrumental in defeating such moves in the state legislature.

Ashbrook said that McGregor, as majority floor leader in the Ohio house, "exercises his power . . . to squelch the effort to give Ohio's pensioners the benefit of the $40 maximum allowed by the new federal Social Security law."

He said he had been "informed" that McGregor recently joined a local Townsend club, however.

"If he was opposed to a $40 pension rate a year ago, how could he possibly be a sincere Townsendite now?" Ashbrook asked. "He will have to do more than join a Townsend club to convince people that he believes in social security."

In Newark, State Rep. William H. Whetro, Ironton, a Democrat and candidate for the nomination for lieutenant governor, charged that McGregor's legislative record showed him to be "unfriendly to labor and unfair to the interests and objectives of the labor movement."

BUSINESS CLUB RE-ELECTS STAFF

SHELBY — All officers of the Shelby Better Business club were re-elected at the annual reorganization meeting of the club at city hall last night. Three new directors were seated on the board of directors at the meeting.

Officers renamed at the meeting were Ralph Bly, president; Charles Dye, vice president; George Hoffman, secretary, and Chester Monn, treasurer. New directors seated at the meeting were F. J. Kotz, Leo Shaw and Hal Shreffler. These directors were chosen on the board to succeed C. L. Beal, Chester Monn and Julius Sutter, whose terms expired recently.

FINLAND CALLS MORE MEN TO BATTLE REDS

dozens of wrecked tanks" were heaped before the Finnish lines.

Russian infantry still stormed over the isthmus' shell-cratered fields of snow to be met in many cases with Finnish Puukkos (hunting knives) in hand-to-hand combat to the crashing accompaniment of shells and bombs.

The Finns indicated hopeful belief that the Red army could not maintain this terrific pace much longer and that delivery of food and munitions through Leningrad to the Russians massed on the narrow isthum must be an ever-increasing problem.

Added to this possibility were Finnish reports that the 54th Russian division was in serious trouble in the Kuhmo sector about 30 miles inside Finland at the waistline frontier, and that attacks north of Lake Ladoga in a flanking attempt had been thrown back.

"Issues Are Clear."

Discussing the invasion, which began Nov. 30 after Finland refused Russian demands for territorial and military concessions, Finland's President Kyosti Kallio, the "first peasant," told news correspondents:

"Everyone knows we are outnumbered fifty to one, but the issues at stake are clear. We appreciate the sympathy shown us by Americans in our struggle to be free—indeed, to live at all—but we really hope our cause might stir onlookers abroad to offer us material help."

U. S. Studies German Ship Attack Claims.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — German claims to a "theoretical right" to torpedo American vessels forced into Allied blockade control stations turned official attention today toward recent protests to Britain against this country's vessels being taken into war areas.

The German statement brought no official comment from the state department but there was a hurried conference between Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the British ambassador, the Marquess of Lothian. Chairman Key Pittmann of the senate foreign relations committee termed the claim "violent and illegal."

Hull and Lothian discussed the entire contraband problem for more than an hour late yesterday but, according to the ambassador, did not reach final decisions. Britain will, however, take up with Canada the feasibility of establishing a contraband control port for American ships at St. Johns, New Brunswick—a point far out of the war zone.

Pittman, in a statement, charged that it would be "unjustifiable and inhuman" to sink American vessels, as the German statement implied that country had a right to do, since they are unarmed. He indicated that this country would hold Great Britain equally responsible should American ships be lost en route to or from control ports, by stating that "it is within the power of Great Britain, by ceasing its practice of forcing our ships into its ports, to remove this very grave danger."

Report British Ready to Convoy Neutral Ships.

LONDON — (AP) — Britain was said authoritatively today to be prepared to offer convoy protection to all neutral shipping passing through her contraband controls whether bound for a British port or elsewhere in view of Germany's latest pronouncement on sea warfare.

Authorized spokesmen in Berlin yesterday and the day before insisted that German submarines had the legal right to sink any neutral ship bound for a British contraband control port, whether voluntarily or under British compulsion.

This was said to apply to any American ship touching a British port such as Gibraltar, where United States liners have been detained for examination recently while enroute to Italian ports.

A British spokesman asserted that Britain views the German claim of the right to sink any neutral ship even though proceeding between neutral ports if it goes through the allied contraband control as "a boast of the illegal policy of sea warfare which Germany already is pursuing."

This spokesman said the British view is that it is unlawful to sink such a merchant vessel at any time.

Claim Japs Reach Limit of Power to Win War.

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Foreign military sources said today they saw unmistakable signs that Japan had reached the limit of her ability to win and hold Chinese territory.

In their view, the Japanese "have stopped winning the war without achieving their objectives" and now are incapable of striking an effective blow to China's resistance.

The invaders' men and materials are beginning to wear out, the said; and their strength is so scattered over thousands of miles of China that their punch has lost its snap.

These statements were made in comment on the Japanese proclamation yesterday urging Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to surrender. These foreign sources regarded it as a significant admission that Japan already has made her maximum military effort.

Eastern sections of the state and the Pittsburgh area were digging out of nearly 20 inches of snow. New York and other Atlantic coast states were hit by a blizzard as the storm swept eastward into the ocean.

In New England, the storm was the worst in two years. At least 12 persons were dead in the east as a result of the storm.

Pittsburgh reported 20 inches of snow in 26 hours, the heaviest fall in the city's history and five inches more than the previous record set in 1902. Schools were closed in the city and scores of extra men were added to the rescue squads to restore traffic

Despite the heavy snow over most of the middlewest and east there was no threat of another prolonged cold wave. Ohio had the lowest temperatures in the nation and further west the mercury registered well above freezing at most weather stations.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1940.

Any good opinion you may have had of Confucius shouldn't be altered by recent nitwit "sayings" attributed to him.

On account of paper shortage British authors have been asked to write on both sides of the sheet—and poets might well use neither.

As a little practice work in bringing about peace why shouldn't the United States devote attention to the all-American controversy among labor leaders?

Telephone Canvassing Nuisance

MANSFIELD has again been deluged, within the past few days, by a "nuisance" canvass over the telephone, similar to previous experiences in which non-resident canvassers represent themselves to be sponsored by reputable local organizations.

It appears that in this instance several of the local organizations mentioned have disclaimed any connection with the selling effort being made, and, in any event, the high-pressure methods being used by the canvassers are so annoying as to merit adverse criticism.

As has been said before, and as is now being emphatically repeated, there is absolutely no justification for a total stranger calling by phone and attempting to make a sale of any article, expecting to be courteously treated by the person called—and all claims of being sponsored by a local organization should be carefully investigated before purchases are made on the strength of such representation.

The telephone canvass, except occasionally by reputable local concerns, has developed into so much of a racket in many cities that probably the best thing to do when such an approach is made, is to hang up the receiver as soon as the purpose of the call is learned—and let it go at that.

For Greater Justice

AN INTERESTING bit of co-operation is being tried out in a midwestern city for the purpose of improving the administration of justice. Judge of the local courts, bar association committees and newspaper men are working together to disclose faults and suggest remedies.

Frankness prevailed at the first meeting. A lawyer reminded the group that many citizens have become severely critical of the work of the courts. A judge stressed the duty of newspapers to be "so careful in writing of the courts that they do not cause the public to lose faith in them." An editor stated the newspapers' willingness to co-operate in any plan that would improve the administration of justice, but added that the press must continue to report true conditions even if they might bring the bench and bar into disrepute.

The public's faith in the courts depends less on what newspapers say about them than how lawyers and judges conduct trials and how much real justice they achieve. If a court is doing a good job, unfair criticism would not hurt it. If it is doing a bad job, the newspapers' silence would not make things any better.

Youths' Larger Problems

MANY Americans who are quite as familiar with the Bill of Rights—and as devoted to it—as the delegates to the American Youth Congress, believe that body has wasted its latest opportunity for constructive work. It spent too much time and energy squabbling about issues which, however important and absorbing, had little to do with the immediate problem of youth.

That immediate problem concerns jobs, with allied problems such as training for jobs, education, economic independence, outlook for normal life and happiness, marriage, and so on. No doubt there were committees at the recent congress which considered these matters and even presented plans for handling them. But the thought of the congress as a whole did not appear to be centered on them.

Most honest Americans would gladly grant this organization the right to tackle and thresh out whatever issues seem most important to it. But they can't help feeling, now that the shouting's over, that leaders and followers alike lost their sense of balance and neglected to put first things first in their deliberations.

Failure of Propaganda

THE flood of propaganda poured into the Near East by both Mussolini and Hitler seems to have borne little fruit. That region now shows distinct leanings toward the Allies rather than Italy and Germany, together or singly.

In the same way, radio and other propaganda has been flooding South American lands for the last few years to win them to naziism or fascism, or possibly communism. Recent evidence shows decreasing enthusiasm there for the European ideologies.

In the same way, Berlin and London have been exchanging uncomplimentary remarks by radio, each trying to undermine the morale of the other and neither apparently accomplishing anything.

There is supposed to be a good deal of propaganda in this country, although the warnings against it have been more conspicuous. In fact, Americans are so alert against propaganda that many of them won't believe anything or take sides on any foreign question.

Beating the 'War Bulge'

AMERICAN retailing has done a fine job lately in protecting consumers against unwarranted advances in prices. And there has been no evidence of profiteering.

That encouraging news is contained in a report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which was recently presented to Secretary Wallace and released officially by the department of agriculture.

The margin between farm and retail prices, the report states, is actually less today than it was when the war in Europe began. And the price of food has declined since the "war bulge" of last September. Retail food prices, the report adds, are 26 per cent lower than in 1929.

Here is more evidence of the soundness of American mechandising structure, working on a free, honest and open competitive basis. Nowhere else in the world does the consumer get so wide a selection of goods at so low a price. Nowhere else in the world does the farmer generally obtain so large a share of the final selling price of what he produces. And nowhere else in the world has retailing efficiency and economy been brought to so high a degree of perfection.

All kinds of stores have done their part to make this possible, and all kinds of stores have prospered and gone ahead and increased their volume of business.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The Irish are a great people and I know God loves them, but after this I am going to eschew any further revivals or new plays by Sean O'Casey, or Liam O'Flaherty, or any of their distinguished colleagues for the purely personal reason that they leave me with the willies.

Ever since I can remember the Irish song writers have been insisting that Ireland must be Heaven, and the Irish dramatists have been doing their best to make liars out of them. At least the O'Caseys and the O'Flahertys have. There is nothing angelic about the people they write about. When the first curtain rises they are about on a level that Tobacco Road dwellers would regard as poor white trash, and they go down from there.

THERE is on Broadway at this moment a highly successful revival of Sean O'Casey's "Juno and the Paycock." After three acts of this I wondered why even the optimists in the audience didn't go home and open a vein. This play is billed as a comedy and the critics called it "uproariously funny," but the only message I got out of it was that life is futile and that man begins to decay the moment he is born.

"Juno and the Paycock" is the story of a family that rocks to oblivion from the dizzy heights of the gutter. There are four people—the mother, the father, the sister and the brother. The father is the Paycock, a liar and a drunk who will not work. The brother is a fear-crazed weakling who is finally executed by some free-Ireland-or-perish fanatics. The sister turns out to be a girl "who falls by the wayside," leaving only the mother to attempt in some way to hold the raveled strands of the family together.

ALL OF their acquaintances and friends are liars who excel only in invective and who double-cross each other during and between the acts. The final curtain falls on a dead son, a betrayed daughter, a drunken father who plans to horse-whip his daughter for soiling the family name, and the mother, who is now a huddled heap of misery in the center of a bare stage, all of the furniture having been taken away for lack of payment.

These are the sort of people O'Casey writes about, and therefore one must assume that they represent his point of view, or at least his idea of Ireland. None of his characters ever reaches the happy ending. They are always born in a sort of semi-purgatory of horror and their lives are always turned into a series of convulsive illiads.

But probably I am all wrong. For a generation critics on both sides of the ocean have called O'Casey a magnificent playwright and they should know. Once a song writer said that Ireland was something like Heaven. All I can say is that if O'Casey's Ireland is this Heaven, I will take Helsinki.

CIO Rise Causes NLRB's Trouble

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

CHAT on Capitol Hill is to the effect that congress finally will so amend the labor relations law as to place upon labor itself the responsibility of deciding which union is which is reaching agreements between workers and employers.

When the law (sponsored by Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York) was enacted, only one set of unions existed—the American Federation of Labor group, under William Green's presidency.

Independently of it were a good many so-called "company unions," unaffiliated with one another. These "company unions," according to A. F. of L. spokesmen, were not genuine organizations, of the toilers' own creation, but were inspired and controlled by the employers in the latters' sole interest, with a view to keeping the true workers' set-ups out of their various industries.

The National Labor Relations Board's job was to see that bargains between employers and sure-enough organizations of employes were made fairly, involving the exclusion of phoney "company unions." The A. F. of L. was favorable to that idea, all right.

However, soon after the law became effective, there developed the split between the A. F. of L. and John L. Lewis' then Committee on Industrial Organization, since become the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Now, the C. I. O. is no aggregation of mere "company unions." It's as much the real article as the A. F. of L. is. Consequently, the NLRB felt itself called on to discriminate between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O.

Suppose an argument in some particular industry between the employers and its A. F. of L. workers on the one hand, and its C. I. O. workers on the opposite hand. The employers have been identifiable. But as to labor? Which is which? Was the A. F. of L. the proper labor bargaining element? Or the C. I. O.?

A Hard Problem.

The NLRB never expected to have to solve this problem. The law didn't contemplate that it would have to do so. Nevertheless, it tackled the situation. Chaos followed.

Every time the board has decided for the A. F. of L., the C. I. O. has been outraged. Every time the decision has been on the C. I. O.'s side the A. F. of L. has torn its hair.

Apparently, the board's rulings have been C. I. O.-ish. Therefore, the A. F. of L. has done most of the yowling. The C. I. O. has been fairly contented. But it's a mean mix-up.

Within themselves the board's members have fought also. Their rulings haven't been unanimous. They've been on a majority-versus-a-minority basis. They not only have disagreed. They've been mutually abusive.

All this has been conspicuously brought out in testimony before Representative Howard W. Smith's congressional committee on investigation of the NLRB situation.

Did Not Foresee C. I. O.

The whole nub of it is:

Senator Wagner didn't foresee that two rival labor groups would spring into being. He recognized a clash of interests between employers and employes, but didn't prevision a clash between employes and employes.

Dean Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin law school offers, as a witness before the Smith investigating committee, what he believes should be a simple solution of the puzzle.

What he recommends is:

"Let the rival labor groups scrap it out between themselves. It's their funeral. Then let them put their unified verdict up to NLRB."

Chairman J. Warren Madden of the NLRB, exhausted by the controversy, acquiesces that Dean Garrison's suggestion "deserves careful study."

Maybe when Dean Garrison calls this a "simple solution," he exaggerates.

It's a guess at one, though.

Today's Thought.

Postpone Infant's Hernia Operation.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

At what age should a child be operated on for hernia?

Except in case of complications, such as strangulation, it is a wise policy to postpone operation for hernia in an infant until at least the age of two years. The principal reason for this is that the structures are not well enough developed to make the operation easy before that time; besides, the baby has not acquired habits of cleanliness and the likelihood of infaction of the wound is considerable. As a matter of fact, on account of the development of the tissues, it would probably be well to postpone the operation even longer than that, depending upon whether the condition is troublesome to the infant.

Are pureed vegetables nutritious?

The modern tendency to use pureed vegetables or homogenized fruit as supplements to the smooth or bland diet for patients with functional disturbances of the digestive tract, is an advance in treatment. The patients like vegetables and fruits in this form, and they provide a minimum amount of irritation.

The question occasionally arises whether or not these are well digested and whether they are actually as nutritious as solid food. The patient with functional digestive disturbances requires plenty of nutrition, even though she also requires, at the same time, rest, both motor and secretory, for the stomach.

Doctors Killian and Oclassen, in New York, have made careful observations on a number of adults with stomach ulcer and other digestive disturbances to determine the rate of digestion of pureed vegetables. The average emptying time of the stomach after meals of this kind was 43 per cent less than the average emptying time of the stomach after meals of strained vegetables. The energy expense for digestion in the stomach was very low.

The conclusion is that this form of diet offers a maximum amount of nutrition with a minimum amount of expenditure of energy for digestion.

Is liver extract of any value in acne?

Marshall, of Appleton, Wisconsin, used a boiled liver extract in the treatment of 14 cases of acne (pimples of the face) and obtained satisfactory results. It is supposed that there is a vitamin in liver, termed vitamin H and sometimes called the "skin factor" which may be responsible for these good results. The boiling of the liver extract appears to increase its potency.

The Show as Usual.

With their increasing leisure and opportunity for diversion the American people probably wouldn't want to be deprived of any substantial part of the quadrennial campaign spectacle. It is one of the great national traditions and would be sorely missed.

The chances now seem to be that nothing important will be subtracted from it. There has been considerable talk of cutting it short by a month or two, or perhaps more. And of all things, from the new deal side, the argument of economy has been raised. But as it is generally understood the expense of running a campaign doesn't fall upon the taxpayers. Nationally it probably would be in the main the willing customers who would pay.

So as the maneuvering over convention dates and a campaign start begins to clear up it appears that the G. O. P. may unlimber the big guns late in June and the new dealers only about a week after that. On both sides, in fact, they're already at it.—Kansas City Star.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Recent cabinet meetings have thrown some light on why Under Secretary of State Welles was dispatched so suddenly to explore peace prospects in Europe.

At these cabinet meetings, the president has expressed two views regarding peace. He feels that heavy fighting may come on the western front by spring, for by that time Hitler may be obliged to attack the Maginot line. So Roosevelt hopes that peace overtures may be started in time to head off this major war move.

Second, the president feels that should this olive branch fail, still it might pave the way for another peace move in autumn or late summer. He bases this on the belief that Hitler's drive on the western front is sure to fail, and that afterward the German government will be in greater need of peace.

Secretary Hull also has expressed important views in recent cabinet meetings, agreeing with the president regarding point one, but not point two.

Mr. Hull fully concurs that there may be a chance for peace now, before the spring drive gets under way. But he does not share the president's optimism that once the drive is started, it will be possible to revive peace efforts in the autumn.

Hull fears that cities will be bombed, civilian populations will become enraged, bitterness will eat deep into the hearts of both sides. He fears the war may become like the Spanish civil war, where neither side could find a foothold for peace. For that reason he believes Europe's one real hope for peace is to act now.

At any rate, the president and his secretary of state emphatically agreed that the time to send Sumner Welles to Europe was immediately.

Troops to Finland.

LATEST confidential dispatches tell of 60,000 allied troops preparing to bolster the Finns and the Swedes. They consist of one Canadian division, one Polish and one French.

Also the 300 British planes reported by The Merry-Go-Round last week as secretly sent to Finland, now have increased to 400. Most of them are Hurricanes, an A-1 type of plane. The pilots are largely Italian.

Continued resistance on the Scandinavian front fits in with Roosevelt's peace moves because it keeps attention focused away from the western front where the fighting will be tough—when it starts.

Naval Portuguese.

SECRETARY of the Navy Edison, after being royally entertained at the Brazilian embassy, invited a Brazilian party to be his guests at the Navy Relief ball. They accepted, came to the ball, and sat in the secretary's box.

Just as the affair was getting started, one of Edison's aides rushed up to Commander Carl F. Holden, and said, "Look here, Holden, you'll have to lend a hand. The secretary has got a party of Brazilians in his box, and he needs somebody to speak Portuguese."

Holden, who formerly served on the U. S. naval mission to Brazil, joined the party. When the music began, he asked one of the ladies to dance.

On the dance floor, Commander Holden launched into a pleasant line of conversation in his best Portuguese. Then he paused, awaiting a response from his companion.

"I'm very sorry," she said, "but I don't understand Portuguese. I'm Mrs. Edison."

Associated Gas Sports.

SEVERAL "beautiful friendships" have been broken over the future of Associated Gas and Electric company, whose 50 different companies supply power and light to almost one quarter of the entire United States.

The company faces bankruptcy, and the federal government, with a big unpaid tax bill, is the largest creditor. Because of this, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Attorney General Jackson went into court last week to ask that the Securities and Exchange commission be made trustee.

They did not say so, but one reason behind their request was the report that Homer Cummings, former attorney general, was in line for the trusteeship.

Cummings has represented the sisters of Howard Hopson, head of Associated Gas and Electric, who are large stockholders. Though he was once a New Dealer and the boss of Bob Jackson, Jackson opposed the idea of Cummings' appointment.

Another man in line for the vital post of A. G. & E. trustee last week was John Hanes, former under secretary of the treasury, and right hand of Henry Morgenthau. When Hanes resigned last month, gushing letters were exchanged with Morgenthau professing their firm friendship.

However, Morgenthau last week was found working against the appointment of his firm friend and ex-assistant to this lush trusteeship, which some people believe will net $1,000,000 for the man appointed.

Meanwhile the SEC declined appointment of itself as trustee. Behind the scenes it promoted Johnny Hanes for the job. Inside the SEC, the idea has been broached of dividing up A. G. & E. into eight different systems, perhaps eight small TVA's.

Note—Although technically bankrupt, Associated Gas and Electric actually owns some of the soundest subsidiary companies in the country, and Wendell Willkie of Commonwealth and Southern is reported licking his chops in anticipation of gobbling some of them up.

Merry-Go-Round.

A MEMBER of the cabinet will soon have some pungent things to say about Tom Dewey, based on copies of letters from women who were his key witnesses in vice trials; also on the cases of witnesses who were held in prison for six months or more with no charges brought against them. . . . Jack Garner forces aren't getting along well with Jim Farley's, especially in New York. . . . Francis Sayre, high commissioner to the Philippines, is getting into a lot of people's hair around the interior department. . . . Keep an eye on Morris Ernst as a candidate for mayor of New York City. He is the hard-hitting laywer who forced Mayor Hague to accept the CIO in Jersey City. Ernst probably will have American Labor party support. . . . Incidentally, Ernst has just written a new book, "The Censor Marches On," which is worth reading for the lowdown on what goes on behind the scenes in the radio and movie studios.

Through the Fog

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ABOUT SIX in the morning I started for the city eighty miles away. As I stepped off the porch, the flashlight in my hand revealed only the immediate path beneath my feet. Above the snowy ground, great clouds of fog had formed, wrapping everything in mist. Fifty feet from the house I could scarcely discern the lighted window. At the barn, where I keep my car, the home light was entirely blotted out. I hesitated for an instant, wondering if the risk of driving in such weather would be too great. But the road was there—solid, wide and sure, and in fancy I could see the tall office building and the face of the man I had planned to meet today.

I drove the car into the road and started west. The headlights penetrated no more than ten feet into the pillars of soft gray mist that clung about the car relentlessly. Familiar trees beside the road showed not even a ghostly outline. At the little bridge, the iron railing seemed to widen as I approached and let me through.

I reached the main road, where a white line in the center could be better seen if I looked out the left hand window. As I came to the village, street lights pointed dim translucent fingers at me through the heavy, rolling waves of fog. It seemed that all the town had disappeared, and I was traveling alone in a deserted, ghost thoroughfare.

Thirty feet away, lights of another car approached, like two small eyes that came from nowhere, and entered oblivion as quickly. I followed for a time the blinking tail-light of another car—a will-o-the-wisp that finally vanished, down a side road. For thirty miles I traveled in this precarious way, until delayed dawn slowly began to dispel the darkness. Soon a better view of the nearer roadside made me sit less tensely in the driver's seat, yet even now, upon first view, an approached truck appeared twice its usual height, distorted by white moving waves of moisture. The meadows on each side were lakes of fog. Gray misty space was prodigal. Only the road was there, very clearly marked. I followed it, and trusted that I would come where I had set out to go.

It rained. The heavy downpour drenched the landscape, and trees and shrubs were encased in icy coatings. An oncoming car sloshed through the icy ponds made along the concrete where the snowplows had dammed the water in, and threw sheets of water like a hydroplane.

Toward the end of the journey the rain stopped. I saw my friend and accomplished my desire. The drive home was through a rolling pleasant country, where I rested my eyes by looking as far as I could see. I hummed a tune I keep for solitude, and knew, in my heart, tomorrow would bring sunshine.

A. council to replace Mrs. Walter Spencer.

A social hour followed with Miss Rebecca Grubaugh and her committee in charge. The March meeting date will be announced later. Frend Boals will speak on safety at that time.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Did you fly over?" I asked Veritzen banally, but with a purpose

"Not exactly," he replied, preening himself, "but Otto made very creditable time, even though there was an unusual amount of traffic on the road."

"Otto and that car of yours are a combination hard to beat," I commented enthusiastically, and then, fearing I might be "piling it on" too thickly, I swiftly changed the subject.

"I suppose you will wish us to begin this little rehearsal at once, I said.

"Presently, presently," he said with an airy wave of the hand, and with a concealed grin I marked down another score for my campaign.

"Will you not sit down?" I asked next, for he was still standing.

He drew a chair opposite me, and seated himself in it with an air of infinite leisure, although I was sure that he was impatient to begin the rehearsal as I was. From inside the house came the faint, almost indistinct strains of a harp, and I saw him turn his head in a listening attitude.

"That must be the harp," he said. "But it is so faint. Why?"

His tone spelled disapproval and disappointment for Olina, but I broke into voluble, hurried explanation.

"That is because the library is almost soundproof, and Olina saw to it that all the windows were closed before she began playing the harp of her choice. Once she had decided on the instrument, she lost no time in shutting herself up so that no one could hear what she really was doing."

Olina's future stepfather smiled indulgently.

"The hall mark of the true artiste," he said. "I take it then you have not yet heard her play."

I hesitated only for the fraction of a second, then answered him truthfully.

"Only a few strains," I said. "She wanted to demonstrate the tone of the harp to me."

"I am not a judge," I told him calmly. "But her playing appealed to me very much, and I believe it will affect an audience in the same way."

"I am very glad to hear that from you," he said faintly. "And now, if it be perfectly convenient to you, shall we go to the library?"

"It is your convenience we are consulting, not mine," I told him, rising, and went out of the door.

At my knock on the library door the faint sounds of the harp ceased, and Olina came to the door. She greeted Philip Veritzen with pretty enthusiasm, and I looked around the otherwise empty room.

"Where is Mary?" I asked. "I sent Katie to ask her to come to the library."

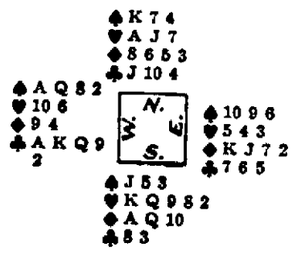
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SAVE THE RIGHT SUIT

UNOBSERVANT players throw away pretty close to a trick on every other hand when they are in their most lackadaisical streaks. A keen-eyed declarer, who watches the discards of such a performer, will see many an unexpected opportunity loom up to make extra tricks or an otherwise hopeless contract, by means of end-plays, by establishment of little cards he never counted on, and in a variety of other ways.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West's 1-Club on this rubber deal was passed to South, who bid 1-Heart. West then bid 1-Spade, South 2-Hearts, North 3-Hearts and South 4-Hearts. He was plenty high, but also plenty lucky.

Two clubs were taken by West, who led a third to be ruffed. The heart A won, diamond 10 was finessed, heart J won, diamond Q was finessed, heart Q taken, then the diamond A. South noticed that on these last two tricks West discarded two clubs. He therefore knew from the bidding that West was holding four spades. So he confidently cashed his heart K and led the spade 3.

If West had let this ride to the K, he could have had two spade tricks on the return, setting the contract. But he stumbled in with his A and then had to lead from his queen to the dummy's guarded K and declarer's guarded J, so South got the last two tricks and made his contract, which was utterly impossible without lots of help from West. An observant West would have held at least one club, and also would not have used his ace on the first spade lead.

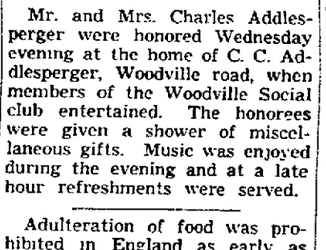
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

What bidding would you advise on this deal, if all four players are known to each other as conservative, dependable and careful?

Wife Preservers

A housewife has found the following procedure satisfactory for taking the kinks out of wool that has been unravelled after being knitted. Take an aluminum hot water bottle, fill it with boiling water, and wind the wool around it as you unravel it. Leave yarn around the bottle until the water is cold, and the kinks will be gone.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Feb. 16.

An excellent opportunity for advancing affairs with steady application and hard work is predicted for this day. But an effort should be made not to run counter to employers or superiors. It might be advisable to deal with large corporations, diplomatic or political bodies, or fraternal groups. There will be many opportunities for stabilizing affairs by attention to detail and by cooperating with those in high places. Old as well as new projects should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may attain a very successful and prosperous year if they will attend to affairs at hand with steadiness and fidelity. They have their best chance with corporations, diplomatic, political or fraternal organizations. Such close application will bring progress to all affairs, old and new.

A child born on this day may be loyal, faithful and warm-hearted, as well as steady, serious and contemplative, making a success of its interests.

TAILOR-MADE.

A living room with walls and ceiling tailor-made of insulating interior finish in neutral colors very often requires less artificial lighting. The surface of the board reflects the light and simplifies the task of illumination. A room of this type is kind to the eyes and easy to live in, for neutral colors are not tiring.

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never be without it in your home, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

NO MORE RED HANDS

WITH NEW TYPE DISH SUDS

Women find new type suds gives dishes and glassware amazing sparkle, yet hands stay soft because it is not a soap and thus contains no acid or alkali to irritate the skin.

IF you have ever been ashamed of coarse, red hands . . . if you have ever wondered what robbed your fingers of their dainty smoothness . . . chances are it's the alkali from the soap you use for washing dishes.

That's why thousands of women are switching to Vel, the new soapless suds perfected by Colgate that contains no acid, no alkali, to irritate the skin.

It's startling how you can wash dishes time after time without a trace of the irritation to hands resulting from soaps. Vel is so easy on hands, women joyfully report it "takes the curse out of dishwashing." Glassware and china sparkle with glittering highlights, because Vel—unlike soap—cannot form soap-scum to streak glassware and dishes.

Vel is also the ideal suds for silks and woolens because it works perfectly in cold water and because it can't leave soap-scum to make fresh colors dull and frowsy-looking. Buy Vel today at any grocer's. Made and guaranteed by Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company.

IN HARD-WATER TOWNS

U. S. Government Survey shows thousands of communities listed as "hard-water towns." If your water is hard, Vel suds delight you more than ever because

Vel makes hardest water act soft as rainwater

Vel outlasts pure soap 2 to 1 in hardest water

Vel makes as much as 5 times more suds than expensive soap flakes in hardest water

CHAPTER XXVI

Rene was weaker than Bill and Claire had thought.

"You'd better leave me, he urged weakly. "I'm just a burden to you. Without me, you may be able to get away. With me, we're all lost. And if we're caught, you know what it means."

"Nonsense," Bill said. "You're coming with us. I'll help you on one side, Claire can help on the other."

Rene insisted still that they leave him, but when Claire and Cameron flatly refused, he reluctantly went along. Bill had gathered up the collapsed parachute and carried it under his arm.

There was heavily wooded territory about a mile to the south—they could see it now that the sun was beginning to dispel the morning mists—and Cameron and Claire had decided it offered their best chance of refuge.

"We'll head for the creek," Bill decided. "It seems to flow through the woods, and the trees will shield us from any one who might be out this early in the morning."

When they reached the fringe of trees they turned southward to follow the stream. It was slow painful work, and they had to stop frequently and ease Rene down to the ground for a short rest.

"What I can't figure out," he said, after the second of these stops, "is how I happen to be here at all. I heard the Nazis shooting at us, I felt a sharp pain, and then I guess I passed out. How did I get down?"

"I climbed over into your cockpit, straightened out the ship and got you over the side and jumped," Bill explained. "I figured I was taking a chance with two of us on one 'chute, but it was the only chance we had. I'd already signalled Claire to jump, and I hoped that we might all land within a mile or two of each other. Luckily there was no wind, so we didn't drift."

"You should have left me in the ship," Rene said. "But thanks, anyway, old man, for saving my life. If we get out of this, I'll try to repay you some way."

"Repay me? Claire and I owe you more than we ever can pay," Cameron protested. "But for you, we'd be prisoners in Berlin, facing a firing squad. Now we've at least got a chance. Where do you think we are, Rene?"

"About halfway between Berlin and Paris. We had flown a little more than an hour when they caught us."

"We'd better be getting along," Claire suggested, and after Rene had had a small nip from the cognac bottle, they went on.

So slowly were they forced to go because of Rene's weakness and the necessity for frequent stop, that the sun was high in the heavens before they reached the shelter of the woods. The ground was much rougher here too, and its steadily rising slope made Rene think they were in the foothills of the Taunus Mountains.

"Our flying time would have put us about there," he said. "We're lucky we landed on the flat instead of in the woods or the mountains."

"Are we near any cities, do you think?" Cameron inquired.

"If my guess is correct, we're somewhere northeast of Frankfort, which would put us pretty close to the second defensive line of the West Wall."

"Then it might be possible," Cameron said, more to himself than to Rene or Claire. He spoke as though he were answering a question he had put to himself.

"Possible? What do you mean?" Claire asked.

"There's only one way I can see for us to get out of here," Bill explained. "I hadn't meant to mention it until later, but we might as well discuss it now. We've got to get hold of a plane, somehow."

"A plane?" Claire exclaimed, in astonishment. "But how?"

"That's what we've got to figure out."

Rene's eyes gleamed appreciatively as he nibbled on a small piece of chocolate Claire had salvaged from her pockets. It was left from the food Frau Weber had given them when they left her flat.

"I know, Bill, you're a man after my own heart. If you can pull off a stunt like that you'll get enough decorations from the French government to cover the whole left side of your coat."

At Cameron's suggestion, Rene drew a small map of the district where he thought they were, with surrounding towns. Claire had found a pencil in her purse, and the inside of the chocolate wrapper served for paper.

"There must be several air fields in this district—emergency places," Cameron said as he looked over the map.

"I wouldn't be surprised," Rene answered, "although we've spotted very few from the air. The Germans are masters of camouflage."

Cameron decided it would be foolish for them to go farther then, as they were safely screened from the air, and the spot where they were seemed to be a dense wilderness into which no one was likely to come.

* * *

With Claire's help, Bill used the silk of the parachute to make a shelter against the wind near an overhanging rock, and then they gathered pine bows for a bed.

"Rene must get stronger before we can do anything," he told Claire. "You stay here with him while I go scouting. We've got to have food, some good nourishing foor for him, more than anything else."

The girl made Rene as comfortable as she could and was alarmed when she felt his forehead. It seemed hot and dry to her—an indication that he had some fever. He was asleep in a few minutes, however, and she went to the nearby mountain stream and busied herself by piling up small rocks to make a makeshift stove.

Within two hours Bill Cameron was back, proudly bearing a dead partridge as a result of his foraging expedition.

"Stalked it for an hour, and knocked it over with a rock. Not very sporting, but you can't stand on ethics when you're hungry."

It developed that Bill was an experienced woodsman. In short order he had the fowl plucked and dressed. He had started a fire in Claire's stone oven, lining the inside with large rocks and sealing it as much as possible to keep the heat inside. The oven was close to the bank of the stream, and Claire stood by with the helmets, ready to scoop water and extinguish the fire in a moment if they heard any planes overhead. Even a thin wisp of smoke, rising from the wooden hill, would be sufficient to betray them.

When the rocks were hot, Cameron packed the partridge in wet clay dug from the stream bank. Then he opened the oven, raked out the coals and ashes, extinguished them, and placed his fowl inside, after which he sealed the outside of the primitive stove with more clay.

"The Cameron fireless cooker," he jested as Claire looked on appreciatively. "In an hour the bird should be done to a turn."

It was almost dusk when he opened the oven and drew the roasted partridge out with a stick. He cracked off the clay, which had baked to brickline hardness, and the odor of the fowl made Claire ravenous. She realized how long it had been since she had had a decent meal.

She awakened Rene, bathed his forehead with cold water, and was relieved to see that his fever had gone down. Seated around his bed of boughs, the three of them feasted on the partridge, Cameron forcing the tenderest pieces—the breast—upon Rene.

"We've got to get you well and strong so we can get out of here."

The fowl was completely gone in a few minutes, but there had been enough to take the sharp edge from their hunger for the time being.

"Tomorrow I'll get something else," Cameron said. "There must be considerable game in the forest at this time of the year."

After Bill had cleaned Rene's wound again with cold water and given it another application of cognac and rebandaged it, the Frenchman lay down and promptly fell into a sound sleep.

"That's the best thing for him," Cameron told Claire. "Complete rest for another day or so, and he'll be fit to travel. The wound doesn't look infected to me."

"You have a lot of qualities I never suspected," Claire commented, admiringly. "You're a doctor of sorts, and you've certainly proved yourself a woodsman. When did you have time to learn all these things?"

"When I was a boy I used to go to summer camps in the Maine woods, and learned a lot of tricks from the guides. In later years, I've usually managed to get in a month or so of fishing and hunting in Canada."

They talked for several minutes until Bill caught the girl nodding and insisted that she lie down under the shelter and rest. She was too sleepy to protest much, and the sunlight was filtering down through the tall pines when she awakened the next morning.

She looked out for Bill, but he was gone from the place she had last seen him—seated outside the little tent where she and Rene were resting. She started up, in sudden panic. What had happened to him?

PERSONAL TAX DATES ARE SET

Collection Period to Open on March 1; Receipts to Show Increase, Belief.

The county's personal tax collection for the first half of the year will get under way March 1 and will continue until April 1, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today.

Tax return blanks are available at the auditor's office in the courthouse where property owners may obtain help in making out the returns.

The collection is expected to show an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent over last year due to the improved yield from investments, the auditor said.

Collections in 1939 totaled approximately $115,000, including $64,600 in classified personal tax and $40,800 in general personal receipts.

The first-half real estate tax collection which began about two weeks ago had produced more than $50,000 in receipts today.

CURIOSITY DANGEROUS

NEW YORK—(INS)—That curiosity can prove a handicap, even to a sleuth became apparent recently when Detectives William Beggs and Matthew Byrne were examining evidence seized in connection with two arrests. Detective Byrne picked up a German Luger automatic pistol which discharged, sending both men to the hospital. Byrne with a grazed hand and Beggs with a serious wound in the chest.

4-H CLUBS BIG BUSINESS

BERKELEY, Cal.—(U.P.)—The 714 4-H clubs sponsored by the University of California Agricultural Extension service have become "big business" in California. Last year they invested $422,294 in livestock and crop projects and reaped benefits of $113,740.

Car Kills Two

Cleveland police were holding Anton Kucich, 26, on charge of being the driver of a careening automobile which struck a group of seven high school athletes, killing two and injuring the others.

Indians Valued Towns Cheaply In Olden Days

BOSTON—(INS)—A shrewd Yankee trader, back in the 17th century, purchased a town from the Indians for 18 hoes, 18 hatchets, 18 knives, 18 coats and "18 fathoms of wampum," it was disclosed by a WPA historical survey.

The land now contained in the town of Agawam, in Hampden county, was purchased by William Pynchon and he erected his dwelling on the south bank of the Connecticut river. The first settlement consisted of 40 families. Today Agawam has a population of more than 7,000. Until 1855, when it was incorporated, it was considered as part of Springfield.

Hits 'Ambulance Chasing' In Compensation Bureau

CITIZENS TAX LEAGUE FLAYS 'RACKET FEES'

Claims Some Workers Made to Pay 50 Per Cent of Award to Representatives.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Urging immediate action to regulate fees paid to representatives by claimants under the workmen's compensation law, the Citizens Tax League asserted today that injured workmen were being victimized by "an ambulance chasing racket."

Supporting its assertions, the league, through S. P. Bush, its president, laid before the industrial commission and Gov. John W. Bricker this four point finding deduced from a survey.

1. "Five groups of claimants' representatives are handling 43 per cent of pending claims, while 22 such groups represent 72 per cent of all pending claims.

2. "Many contracts between claimants and representatives call for contingent fees as high as 50 per cent of the award—in violation of a state supreme court ruling.

3. "Some practitioners solicit clients by employing 'runners' or 'bird-dogs' in violation of commission rules.

4. "Commission employes have been in collusion with 'ambulance chasers'."

The league urged that legislation eventually be drafted to correct these asserted abuses but in the meantime, suggested that commissioners require written statements from each claimant specifying the amount of fees he has agreed to pay his representative.

Further, the league demanded the commissioners act promptly to correct "administrative deficiencies" which "permit the ambulance chasing racket to develop through collusive relations between representatives and commission employes."

Clinics Start to Pick Healthiest, Beautiful Babies

Te first clinic to determine the babies that are healthy enough to enter the three-way baby contests that are being sponsored by the Mansfield Liederkranz, was held this morning in the basement of the Mansfield Savings bank building, Fourth and Main streets.

There were 21 babies registered at the clinic and all of them passed the necessary 90 per cent. The baby contests are being held in connection with the Mardi Gras which will be staged here March 28, 29 and 30.

There are three divisions of the show, with three age brackets for both boys and girls. Trophies will be awarded the winning babies in the health and beauty contests, which are free. The third contest is for popularity and this is determined by the number of tickets sold for the Mardi Gras. First prize in this contest is $50. Babies may be entered in the health and beauty contests without going into the popularity contest, according to Eugene J. Murphy, New York City, director of the contests.

Dr. Carl T. Langacher of Mansfield was in charge of the free clinic this morning. There will be another clinic tomorrow morning at 10 a. m. and five next week, starting on Monday.

FATHER SEES 3 BOYS KILLED

Son Fails To Understand Rail Crossing Warning Dad Gave.

THATCHER, Colo. — (AP) — Twelve-year-old Bruce Smoot, out riding in a light coupe with two pals, saw his father waving at them.

He waved back. So did William Talbott, 16, and his brother Bob, 11.

They didn't see the fast streamlined train bearing down on them as they approached a crossing. The train struck the car at 45 miles an hour.

Bruce's father, I. C. Smoot, the station agent, had been waving to warn them to stop. They were killed before his eyes.

GLATTKE IN N. Y.

O. S. R. Chief Presides at Session of Warden's Association.

Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent of the Ohio State reformatory was in New York today presiding over the annual meeting of the Warden's association of the American Prison congress.

Glattke is president of the association which is meeting with the board of directors of the congress. He is expected back in Mansfield Sunday, reformatory officials said.

CITY TELLS WPA IT'S SET TO GO ON WEST FOURTH

Water Line Project, First on Schedule, Due to Start When Weather Breaks.

The state highway department was given the "go" signal on the reconstruction of West Fourth street today by city officials who notified state WPA headquarters that they were prepared to begin a project calling for the replacement of water lines on the street.

A crew of 65 workmen has already been assigned to the job by WPA and it is expected that work will begin on the water lines as soon as the weather permits, they said today.

Murray D. Shaffer, division highway engineer at Ashland said that the state would not begin work on the resurfacing until WPA has the water line project completed.

The paving proposal calls for the resurfacing of the roadway from North Diamond street to a point near the intersection of Linden road where the proposed over pass at the B. & O. railroad is expected to connect.

Total cost of the project is estimated at approximately $100,000, with the city and property owners sharing in 50 per cent of the cost.

Council settled the question of the type of surface to be put down when the councilmen met with Shaffer before the special council session last night.

Altering the original plans which called for a center driving strip of new brick and the relaying of salvaged brick for parking lanes, council agreed on a 22-foot center lane of brick with six-foot parking strips on either side.

Council members abandoned the idea of an all brick surface when Shaffer told them the state could not consider the plan unless the city stood the additional expense.

Gets Extra Month To Absorb Higher Learning He Sought

On his plea for higher learning, Ernest Stein, 22, of Toledo, a former Ohio State reformatory inmate was sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., for 19 months by Judge Robert N. Wilkin in Cleveland yesterday instead of an 18-month term at Milan, Mich.

Judge Wilkin had booked him for a term at Milan, but changed it and added a month and Lewisburg after Stein told the court he had received some education at the reformatory here and wanted to "complete an education in mechanical drawing."

Stein was arrested by Mansfield police several weeks ago for transporting a stolen automobile from Detroit to Mansfield. Out of the penitentiary only 20 days he was turned over to federal authorities for violation of the federal motor theft act. He pleaded guilty to the charge yesterday.

JONES TO HEAD SALVATION ARMY

Elected President of Board at Annual Meeting; $6,000 Raised to Pay Debt.

John S. Jones was elected yesterday to head the executive board of the Mansfield Salvation Army at the annual meeting held at the Army hall. He replaces Harquently foregone their salaries.

Other officers who will serve for the ensuing year are Mrs. John Pierce, vice president; Guy Lautzbaugh, treasurer, and Mrs. V. H. Lodde, secretary. Mrs. Lodde was elected for the tenth consecutive year.

The annual treasurer's report shows that the drive which the Salvation Army staged last fall had brought in $6,000 which will be applied on the mortgage on the building, leaving an unpaid balance of $5,000. Although all of the reports were not in, the drive is ended. Major David Brown of the Army said the board would continue to accept contributions to the mortgage fund, however.

Speakers at the meeting were Brigadier W. A. Statig of Cleveland: Envoy J. T. Adams of Oklahoma City, and E. M. Dean, Cleveland. Brigadier Statig commented on the increased relief load which the Army in Mansfield has shouldered and said that in order to keep the work operating with insufficient funds, both Major and Mrs. Brown had fre-

One of the interesting features of the luncheon meeting was that the entire luncheon, including the table decorations of red roses, was brought to Mansfield from Cleveland by Major Alvena Wood, sister of Mrs. Brown, who is head of the Booth Memorial hospital there, and her assistants. Major Anna Nelson and Capt. Esther Wynn.

SENTENCE DEFERRED

CANTON —(AP)— Pending consideration of a parole request, Common Pleas Judge F. N. Sweitzer deferred sentence today for Warren Charles Wilson, 18, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first-fight death of William Allen, 18, Massillon high school pupil.

Nathaniel Bigelow, Last of Old Mansfield Family, Dies

Nathaniel Perkins Bigelow, 77, last member of an old Mansfield family, died at General hospital this morning after a long illness.

He was something of a link between the "old" and the "new" Mansfield, his life having covered the span of years which saw the city's fine old residences fall before the march of modern new ones.

His father, Perkins Bigelow, perpetuated his own activities in behalf of the city by planting the first trees in Central park, many of which still remain. The father was one of the early physicians and druggists of the city and was twice mayor of Mansfield. His mother was Anna M. Palmer Bigelow.

Mr. Bigelow was born Oct. 31, 1862, in a home that stood on the site now occupied by the Southern hotel. Soon after, his father built one of the then fine homes of the city on the southwest corner of Third and Mulberry. The old barn of the Dr. Bigelow home, which later was known as the Bushnell home, still stands back of the row of business places on the property.

The Bigelow drug store was on the corner of Third and Main where the Citizens National bank now stands.

Mr. Bigelow was regarded for many years as one of the town's "Beau Brummels" because of his meticulous and modish attire, a fact he frequently laughed about later when he became a farmer.

He was a lifelong member of Grace Episcopal church, which he had at various times served as senior and junior warden, and as clerk and treasurer of the vestry. He moved to a farm in Weller township 23 years ago and had been retired for the past 15 years.

An only sister died a number of years ago, and his only survivors were two nieces and a nephew, Mrs. Clarence L. Cole of Cleveland, who had been at her uncle's bedside for the past ten days: Mrs. E. W. Hilbourne, Gardner, Mass., and W. H. Noble, Winnetka, Ill.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at Grace Episcopal church, with Rev. M. G. Nicola officiating. Burial will be made in Mansfield cemetery. Mr. Bigelow had made complete arrangements for his own funeral before his death.

Tunnels Found In Attempted 'Mass Break' at Prison

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA—Outside aid was a definite factor in the elaborate plot by a group of long-term prisoners at Eastern penitentiary to tunnel their way to freedom and perhaps liberate 200 others in a mass "break," prison officials disclosed today.

Two tunnels which had taken an estimated three months to build were discovered under separate cells. One reached 38 feet and was only a short distance from the penitentiary wall.

Two paroled convicts were seized outside the prison in yesterday's snowstorm, and Detective Inspector George Richardson, in charge of a "machine-gun squad" sent to the prison, revealed that he had received a reliable "tip" that another tunnel had been started from the cellar of a nearby house to meet one of those from the penitentiary.

Prison officials pointed out that the 11 convicts immediately involved were too experienced to risk the escape attempt and possible death from guards' fire unless they were certain that money, automobiles, clothing and weapons awaited them when they reached freedom.

RITES FRIDAY

John Gray to be Buried From Jones Memorial Tomorrow.

Funeral service for John Gray, who died yesterday of a heart attack, will be held at 10 a. m. Friday at the Jones Memorial. Rev. S. R. Parrett, pastor of Gospel Center, will officiate and burial will be made in Mansfield cemetery.

Mr. Gray was found dead in the garage at 100 Lind avenue where he had gone to get a snow shovel with which to clean the walks.

THREE PUT ON PROBATION, ONE GETS PEN TERM

Judge Sets Aside Sentence of One Man After Record Proves to Be Good.

Willie Gaines, 34, Mansfield, colored, was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for one to 20 years today, while three other defendants won probation when brought before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston on grand jury indictments.

E. C. Hughes, Mansfield, one of the probationers, at first drew a penitentiary sentence, but Judge Huston later placed him on probation after an investigation revealed that Hughes had a good record and was supporting his family. Hughes pleaded guilty to an indictment for cutting with intent to wound, a charge which grew out of an altercation at the Midway Night club on East Fifth street.

Also given probation were Bernard Milligan, Shelby, indicted for operating a car without the owner's consent, and William Lawler, Mansfield, accused of forgery. Both pleaded guilty.

Hughes and Milligan were put on probation for three years and Lawyer for five years. They will report to Harry Crouse, county progation officer.

Gaines, who was sentenced to the pen, admitted slashing a colored companion with a knife in an East Sixth street restaurant. He contended, however, that it was "an accident."

Lawler, who was sought for five months for passing three bad checks for more than $700, was taken into custody here last month. A former Mansfield garage employe he fled to California after the bogus checks were discovered.

Orlo Hinkle, Mansfield, arraigned on an indictment for robbery, pleaded innocent and his trial was set for next week. He is accused of snatching a purse from Mrs. T. J. McDermott, Mansfield.

ATTICA — Attica Community Institute will be held at school auditorium Friday and Saturday, Feb. 16-17. State speakers are Mrs. Florence M. Eukmeier of McClure, O., and Charles W. Peters of Minerva, O.

Cruise To Take Roosevelt In Waters Where Subs Were Seen

(By United Press)

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO PENSACOLA — President Roosevelt boards the cruiser Tuscaloosa today for a 10-day fishing trip that may develop into an inspection of the United States neutrality patrol and carry him into waters where foreign submarines have been reported.

Temporarily lifting the secrecy with which he has surrounded his plans, the president permitted it to be published that he will embark early in the afternoon at the navy's air training base at Pensacola. The Tuscaloosa, temporarily detached from the Atlantic neutrality patrol, will be convoyed by two destroyers—the Lang and Jouett.

No president has cruised in waters where belligerent war vessels might be operating. Only last fall, Mr. Roosevelt made public reports that a submarine of some foreign registry had been sighted near Key West, Fla.

The secrecy around Mr. Roosevelt's trip suggested that it might be more than a fishing expedition. Twenty-two vessels of the Atlantic squadron have been maneuvering off the Dutch West Indies, in Caribbean waters easily accessible to a vessel of the Tuscaloosa's cruising range.

White House attaches admitted that Pensacola would be the point of embarkation only after dispatches had established that the Tuscaloosa and its convoys were awaiting the president there.

A White House official, when asked to explain the secrecy, said: "submarines."

The president will be away 10 days or two weeks.

BLOCKS METERS

Supreme Court Prohibits Parking Machines For Cleveland.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A state supreme court ruling today blocked installation of parking meters in Cleveland. The court refused to review an appeal from an injunction restraining the city from carrying out a contract with M. H. Rhodes, Inc., for rental of the devices at $59,850 annually.

The injunction was obtained in Cuyahoga county courts by Anna Checie, Cleveland, in a taxpayer's suit against the city and its officials.

AUTOMOBILE engineers talk a lot about car weight — and with good reason.

They know that riding qualities begin with enough road weight to hold you steady on your course—they know that weight is often another measure of size—above all, they know that weight means substance, strength, durability.

So it's interesting to note that this trim Buick SPECIAL gives you more weight per dollar than almost any other car you can buy.

With all its husky straight-eight power—power that's like velvet because engines are balanced after assembly — with all its room, and style, and comfort — this Buick still has one of the lowest costs-per-pound of any car on the market.

And nowhere else will you find valve-in-head power, all-coil springing, torque-tube steadiness and Buick's plussage in accessories at the figures that apply to the SPECIAL.

So if a little extra money is keeping you out of a Buick, take another look at those dollars.

They buy more car to begin with. More size and more substance.

They buy some six dozen new 1940 features, including many an "extra."

And you'll get most of them back in longer life and higher trade-in value—not to mention your fun and solid satisfaction!

Backache A Memory Since Mansfield Man Took Vendol

Advises everyone needing a laxative or kidney diuretic to get Vendol at once. Says it's great.

MR. GEORGE G. BUTTS

"After getting such grand relief, there isn't a doubt in my mind as to what this grand medicine Vendol can do and I believe it will help everyone who gives it a chance," said Mr. George G. Butts of 809 Springmill street, Mansfield, a retired Street Car Motorman, who is known to thousands of local citizens, to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store.

"My troubles were caused by allowing myself to be constipated and also I needed a diuretic action on my kidneys, and this condition gave awful pains across my back and down through my legs.

"The pains were so bad sometimes that I felt I couldn't keep going if I didn't find relief. I tried different things but until I started on Vendol and the little Vendol tablets, nothing I tried helped much.

"In addition to these aches and pains, this constipated condition had me so that I never wanted to eat my meals because I knew I would feel distressed afterwards with gas in my stomach, sourness, cramps and palpitation, and worse yet, my nerves became so upset that I seldom got a rest of night's sleep.

"It was lucky for me when I tried Vendol because it wasn't long, till this fine medicine gave the most satisfying relief from constipation, then, my aches, pains, stomach upsets and other troubles became all a memory and I truly feel better now than for many a day.

"My advice to everyone who is feeling like I used to is, to lose no time in getting Vendol."

Why not give Vendol a chance to help you, too? The Vendol Man is daily at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and 4th Sts., and will gladly explain all about it and advise you honestly whether or not he thinks it will help you. Vendol is sold by most all other leading druggists.

BICYCLE LICENSE BILL DEAD, BUT IT STIRS COUNCILS FUSS

Police Chief Meade K. Bates' two-year-old request for a bicycle licensing ordinance to curb the theft of bicycles has "died" in council.

This was revealed at last night's special council session during which councilmen engaged in a short but warm debate over the merits of the plan.

The controversy began when Russell D. Porch inquired as to what had become of the proposal, submitted to council nearly two years ago and which Boy Scouts had urged council to consider at its meeting last week.

Admitting that the proposal had "died" in committee, C. N. Shultz said he was opposed to the licenses if the city had to charge the young riders for them.

Arthur L. Croak, chairman of the special committee which handled the request, exploded that he couldn't see any sense in giving them away and as far as he was concerned the bill could "rot" before he'd give licenses away.

Shultz had argued that a proposed 25-cent fee was too much to expect bicycle riders to pay for the licenses. He said he was willing to "go along" on the plan if they were distributed without charge.

Bates had asked council to consider the licensing plan as a means of reducing the number of bicycle thefts in the city. Scouts last week urged passage of such an ordinance, explaining that they proposed to set up a bicycle court to educate bicycle riders and punish traffic law violators.

Budget Cut Leaves Aircraft Carrier Without Planes

HOUSE STORM BREWS OVER SLASHED FUND

Sending $22,000,000 Craft to Sea Without Planes, Hit in Committee Study.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The prospect that the navy's new aircraft carrier Hornet might have to go to sea without planes because of the congressional economy drive stirred a revolt today among members of the house naval affairs committee.

"Sending the Hornet to sea without planes would be like sending out a battleship without guns," said Rep. Melvin Maas, R., Minn., ranking minority member of the committee.

The Hornet is due to be commissioned in 1942. It was started under the 1938 naval program and will cost about $22,000,000.

High ranking members of the committee, who legislate on naval policy but have nothing to say, except on the floor, about naval appropriations, were so perturbed about the possible effect on the navy's building program of a $111,700,000 cut in the pending $966,772,878 naval appropriation bill for 1941 that they conferred with Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations.

Stark, who, it was reported, sought support for a movement to restore as much of the cut as possible, met a negative response except in respect to airplanes. Those who participated in the conference included Maas, Chairman Carl Vinson, D., Ga., and Rep. Colgate Darden, D., Va.

Members said Stark indicated that the house appropriations committee's cut of $21,714,600 in airplane procurement funds and $10,000,000 in contract authorizations for the same purpose would make it impossible to provide the Hornet with planes by the time she is commissioned.

Requires 111 Planes.

The Hornet, they said, will require 111 planes. The cut in the 1941 budget for planes eliminated 224 the navy wanted to order next year. The committee approved only enough funds for 305 replacement planes to take the place of aircraft becoming obsolete, and 47 new planes for the naval reserve.

The naval committee group seemed not to be concerned about the cut in funds for two new 45,000 ton battleships. President Roosevelt said at his press conference Tuesday that he hoped the senate would restore the entire amount of the budget—$7,800,000, which the house committee had cut to $1,500,000.

"A million and a half is enough to let the contracts," Vinson commented, and Maas added, "they can start work with that much."

The group said, however, it was not ready to announce yet just what amendments it would offer when the bill reaches the amending stage on Friday.

Five Trapped In Blizzard-Stranded Bus 5 Hours, Saved

NEW YORK—(INS)—Four men and a woman resident of Columbus, O., who spent five hours jumping up and down in a bus trapped in yesterday's blizzard near Armonk, N. Y., were rescued today as they neared mental and physical exhaustion.

The men and the woman, Mrs. Leo Belcher, were stranded in the stalled bus which was bound from New York City to Danbury, Conn.

A snow plow sent from North Castle, N. Y., cleared a path for the bus and finally freed it. Joseph Dennis, of Danbury, the driver, who is also an amateur singer, sang all the songs he knew while the passengers jumped up and down on the bus floor to the rhythm of his tunes to keep warm. Dennis fought his way through huge snow drifts to a farm house to give the alarm.

Up and Down THE STREET

One of the most enthusiastic collectors of Lincolniana in this section of the state is Jacob Garber of Butler, and one of his most prized pieces was displayed last night when he spoke at the Lincoln day banquet at First Methodist church. It was a large satin ribbon badge which was worn during the presidential campaign of 1860 and bears a very good likeness of Lincoln at the time when he ran for president the first time. Garber acquired it from a relative who had kept it for more than 70 years.

When members of the John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed Junior high school bands elected officers early this week for the last half of the present school year, each group elected James Smith as one of its officers. James Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Smith, 54 Home avenue, and a trumpet player, was elected president of the Johnny Appleseed band, while James Smith, son of Mrs. Ruth Smith, 183 West Park drive, and a clarinet player, was elected vice president of the John Simpson group.

Paul M. Angle, former Mansfielder and an authority on Lincoln, was given recognition by Carl Sandburg in his recently-published history of Lincoln, entitled "Abraham Lincoln, The War Years." Sandburg's history, published in four volumes, was dedicated to Angle and five or six other experts on Lincoln lore. Angle has been active in the Abraham Lincoln association and wrote the book, "Here I Have Lived," a story of Springfield, Ill., while Lincoln lived there.

Just 60 years ago this week Mansfield was figuring quite prominently in the national news, Columnist William A. Duff of Ashland, former Mansfield newspaperman, recalls. John Sherman was then being encouraged to seek the presidency at the national convention which was to be held in Chicago the following June. The old Mansfield Herald carried two full pages of editorials of Ohio newspapers favoring the nomination of the distinguished Mansfielder.

SEES BUSINESS IN NEW RELAPSE

Economist Ayers Says 'War Boom' Prepared for But Didn't Materialize.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—A new business relapse is under way because business men have acted in this war as they found it wise to act in 1914, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice-president of the Cleveland Trust company, said today.

"It often is said that the only war for which military men successfully may formulate plans is the last war," he said in his monthly business review. "The same is true of business men. The real reason why we have just had a little business boom lasting four months is that when war broke out in Europe business men in this country hurriedly made preparations which would have been prudent and profitable in 1914."

Ayres said that unless "far more numerous and larger war orders are placed" this nation's economy will remain as it was before the war began.

"Our problems still are those of huge taxation, idle men, idle dollars and multiple barriers impeding the expansion of business enterprise," he said.

The Cleveland economist cited decline in industrial production from December to January and from January to February and predicted another decline from February to March.

"The solution of our short-term business problems still depends on the unpredictable developments of war and politics," he said. "For the longer term our future economic welfare still depends on the attitude of the national government toward business enterprise."

DENIES CHARGE OHIO BEHIND IN SELECTION OF FEDERAL WORKERS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Civil service commission officials contended today there was no basis for complaints that the agency disregarded state quotas in the selection of federal workers from Ohio.

They said the state was entitled to more jobs than were occupied because of failure to certify larger numbers of applicants.

Rep. Jack Nichols (D-Okla.) told the house that Ohio was entitled to 2,686 positions but had only 1,631 occupied.

Commission officials said positions held by persons from some other states exceeded quotas because larger numbers were certified.

Those below their quotas are given preference in future certifications, qualifications being equal, the officials contended.

Nichols said civil service was not handled fairly, and added: "Every state has a quota, and the great civil service commission, as is its wont to do many things, pays absolutely no attention to the state quotas. Eleven states and the District of Columbia are far over their quotas."

Nichols presented his figures during debate on the Rampspeck bill to extend civil service among government workers.

Representative Bender (R-Ohio) said the bill, "under the guise of a wholly commendable civil service extension, is actually an effort to freeze into permanency the thousands of appointees employed by New Deal agencies."

"It seeks," said Bender, "to foist upon a new administration an army of federal employes who will attempt to carry on the program which our nation is ready to repudiate."

Bender declared that when "former Governor Davey knew he was on the way out he ordered noncompetitive examinations and froze thousands of employes into the state service. When Governor Bricker came in under an economy program he found it difficult to get rid of many of these employes because they were frozen into the service."

CLAIMS MOVIE PRODUCERS GOT SECRET REPORT

Chairman Says Investigator's Findings Mysteriously Found Way Into Their Hands.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Chairman Martin Dies of the house committee investigating un-American activities said today that motion picture industry producers had obtained in a mysterious manner a committee investigator's report on subversive activities in Hollywood.

Returning to the capital to take personal command of his committee, Dies said his first move would be to start the group's inquiry into alleged subversive influences in the motion picture industry.

"We are determined to expose Hollywood," Dies said.

Next on the list for investigation, Dies said, are consumers' organizations and "Communists in the government."

Dies said that motion picture producers had "one of the best organized campaigns against the committee" in existence. As evidence of the producers' activities, Dies said, a copy of a report made by a committee investigator after eight months work in Hollywood had reached members of the movie industry. Dies said that copies of this report had been given privately to committee members but that nothing was supposed to have been given out about it.

Dies said that this being a campaign year he would urge that the committee hold no more public hearings. Thus, he explained, the committee could avoid being accused of "trying to influence the coming presidential election."

Dies appeared in fine physical condition although he said he would have to "take it easy for a while." He has been recuperating from a sinus infection at his home in Orange, Tex., for more than a month during which time his committee has been in a turmoil.

"If we are not thwarted and handicapped at every turn we will give the people the truth they are looking for."

He said that he would recommend that the committee "expose" British and French lecturers who offer their services to American lecture bureaus to obtain "a medium for putting across their propaganda."

FAIR ENOUGH!

Mrs. Roosevelt Loses as Result of Her Attitude Toward Youth Congress

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The fact remains, after the shrill clamor of the so-called Youth Congress and the soft skush of dissenters striking the pavement outside, that this organization defiantly harbors groups which are not merely disloyal to the United States, but actively disloyal to Josef Stalin, whose dictatorship is, in the words of President Roosevelt, "as absolute as any other dictatorship in the world."

Mr. Roosevelt is not the first to notice this interesting peculiarity of the Moscow government, but his remark, hurled unexpectedly at the mass of precocious pets of Mrs. R., had the political effect of that lewd note known as the raspberry.

In almost every other family, this would have been sure to call for private discussion running far into the night, and, the Roosevelts being human, Mr. Big's impolite salute to his lady's friends may have been the subject of a continued discussion in private.

Earl Browder's testimony before the Dies committee contained an admission that, to a member of the Communist Party of America, Josef Stalin is infallible in matters of foreign policy up to and including war, and not excepting war against the United States.

The position which he stated was not one of divided allegiance to the Moscow government. As head man in this country of an organization which places absolute deputies, he lays down the law for American Communists.

Thus, plainly, the Communists in the Youth Congress, to say nothing of the fellow travelers who are only pledges, so to speak, with the right to renege, are not mere critics, but opponents of the American form of government, and prospective enemies of the nation. Mrs. Roosevelt has been seen feeding sugar to this Trojan steed—which is not a dashing charger, however, but a swayback plug. Her error is not as grave as it may seem, for the congress as a whole is not Communistic.

To change the metaphor and employ a bit of roguishness which would have seemed dreadfully daring a few seasons ago, the Youth Congress is only a leetle bit Communistic. As to whether it must become more so in the natural course of events before it becomes less so, nobody can say.

The condition could be cured abruptly, but the best constitutional minds in and around the congress hold that this would require an illegal operation. They insist that it would be a violation of American principle to kick out the young Communists because of their beliefs, and it appears that nobody raised the more vital question of their allegiance. It is not easy, but it is possible to tolerate offensive beliefs in a congress of Americans.

But it is no offense against the most liberal Americanism to cancel the credentials of those who have chosen to un-Americanize or foreignize themselves to the extent of membership in the Communist Party.

This one clumsy mistake does not entirely revoke Mrs. Roosevelt's reputation as a smart politician operating in the guise of an enthusiastic novice, but if this were parchesi instead of politics, at least one of her markers would be set back to scratch.

The congress was her show, and she placed herself in the status of chief lobbyist for a $500,000,000 appropriation just in time to hear the president pronounce a hex on lobbies and funny-money subsidies.

Stubbornness and overconfidence were Mrs. Roosevelt's faults here. She was wrong from the start, because even the most generous Americanism does not call for executive hospitality to anti-Americans, even incidentally. No question of tolerance was involved. Mrs. Roosevelt, nevertheless, chose to risk her personal and official prestige, and, for the first time, lost.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Peace on a hilltop, away from it all. It's a rambling little California house, quaint and slightly rustic in style. On a clear day you can see (unless you're ornery and look the other way) Catalina. It isn't compulsory, however, for those who can take their Catalina or leave it alone.

The Louis Haywards live there. They bought the place about six months ago. It was just the kind of spot Louis and the new missus (she's Ida Lupino) wanted.

"Small," said Louis at the time. "Nice. Not even a dining room—nobody really needs a dining room. We like it."

Today Louis is going out on an appointment, but Ida is home. Ida is sitting in the living room, on a flowered sofa beside the blazing fire. She's pretty and lissome—green lounging slacks with a mustard-gold jacket, dark hair caught in a red snood, a red bow standing perkily on top.

"Nice little joint you've got here," says I.

"We like it," says Ida, a bit grimly I think. "We're doing over the living room. Tearing out the end wall, making an alcove. Painting the walls green they're too white now. We're changing the fireplace too. The room has no character as it is. Too square."

Ah, here's the story.

"Friends," says Ida. "They're wonderful. We don't ask many people up here any more. We did, at first . . . "

Friends. Friends calling to see the dear new house-wousie, pride of the Haywards' lives.

One friend who said, gushingly, "Darling, it's the sweetest, littlest house I ever saw!"

Another who said, "Ida, dear, it's sweet but awfully self-conscious, don't you think?"

Another who studied the flowered maroon chintz drapes and conceded, "Oh, yes—chintz is very good in the better grades . . . hm-m-m!"

Another who surveyed a chair, snidily, and exclaimed "What a strange chair . . . nice, I suppose, if you like it. . . . "

* * *

Anyway, the Haywards had that "strange chair" recovered, although its upholstery was brand new, and have avoided it ever since. Ida's piano—a distinctive upright which one of her friends (who preferred a baby grand, herself) mistook for a writing desk—has its keys exposed now. Ida doesn't say why, but that's how it is. Also the dining room (oh, yes, they decided to have a dining room after all) has been "done over" entirely. Seems it was a frightful red, all over, and they'd meant to change that, from the very first. They're putting in a swimming pool, down on the slope, with dressing rooms and all the trimmings. They have a lot of things yet to do.

Now all the ideas, of course, didn't come from friends, but—

"I think if you can't see good in a house or in people—you ought not to say anything at all," says Ida, emphatically.

She has had her revenge, however. Not long ago she was a guest on the Bing Crosby air program. The skit (which she had written to order) embodied all the catty comments made about her home. Maybe you heard it, and now you know where she got the idea.
